Future Negotiations Between East and West Expected to be Harder

Khrushchev's Insistent Call for Nonaggression Pact Main Issue

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—As East-West negotiations go, the recent conclusion of a limited nuclear test ban treaty with the Soviet Union was a breeze. The next round won't be so easy.

Premier Khrushchev's insistent call for an East-West nonaggression treaty seems certain to provide to the central issue in negotiations at the next stage.

The problem is finding out how the United States should approach those negotiations and what Khrushchev wants to accomplish in talks with top Soviet leaders.

Khrushchev has made his main point clear. At the signing of the test ban pact Monday in Moscow he declared that "the next step, in our opinion should be to conclude a nonaggression pact between the member states of NATO and the states belonging to the Warsaw Treaty."

Publicly Flexible

While the United States position on his proposal is publicly flexible, American leaders undoubtedly are opposed to the pact in the form in which Khrushchev wants it.

The public flexibility is due to a desire here to keep Western negotiations with the Soviet government moving forward and to find out whether a modified nonaggression agreement acceptable to both sides might be worked out.

What course Khrushchev eventually takes depends on his real goals, about which Washington officials are uncertain. If, as many suspect, he is angling for some kind of recognition of Communist East Germany, the United States and its allies will face extreme difficulty in coming to terms with him in the next round. The Western powers do not recognize East Germany, a member of the Warsaw Treaty.

Good Will Gesture

In the view of some of the best informed authorities here a nonaggression pact would be meaningless except as a kind of good will gesture toward peace. All the countries which are members of the United Nations, including the Soviet Union and the United States, are already committed to nonaggression by the U.N. charter.

French President Charles de Gaulle has made clear his opposition to the pact.

But the officers involved are the same men. Their terms have not been changed. The only change is that they will immediately start receiving more generous pay envelopes—as will most of the new terms.

Some legislators have felt embarrassed and annoyed by such pretentious procedures, but they mean that most newly appointed

Legislature Circumvents State Constitution To Give Government Officials Salary Raises

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The Legislature wound up its regular 1963 session Tuesday by again circumventing the plain language of the state constitution which prohibits the increase or the reduction of the pay of any state official during the term of office for which he is chosen.

In a gentleman's agreement with Gov. John W. Reynolds the change is that they will immediately start receiving more generous pay envelopes—as will most of the new terms.

Some legislators have felt embarrassed and annoyed by such pretentious procedures, but they mean that most newly appointed volving the abolition of offices have evidently felt that it is preferable to the effort required for an amendment of the constitution. There is also some doubt in the minds of some politicians about the ability of such a constitutional amendment to survive an electoral referendum.

One senator Tuesday voted against the repeal and re-creation of state administrative offices and the higher pay bill which was embodied in the legislation. "This is a sneaky gimmick," grumbled Sen. Chester Dempsey, as he cast the lone vote in the Senate against the maneuver.

Literal Compliance

Literal compliance with the constitutional requirement would have the lawmakers reconvene for a session late in fall.

Russians, Red Chinese Shake Hands in Japan

Final Resolution at Anti-Bomb Meeting Ignores Test Pact

HIROSHIMA, Japan (AP)—Red Chinese and Soviet delegates shook hands in private at the ban-the-bomb conference today and agreed to a watered-down resolution that ignored the Big Three nuclear test ban treaty.

The divided, communist-dominated conference unanimously adopted a resolution condemning U.S. plans to continue underground tests and pledging the delegates to "resolutely block the French plan, supported by the imperialists headed by the United States, to further test weapons in the Sahara and the Pacific."

The 6,000 Japanese and 71 foreign delegates to the 9th World Congress Against Atom and Hydrogen Bombs also called for the establishment of nuclear-free zones in parts of the world.

Good Humor

The Chinese and Soviet delegates appeared in good humor after side-stepping a showdown that had been expected during three days of angry words over the test ban treaty. The Chinese had denounced it as a fraud and the Russians defended it as a first step toward a total ban, a goal of all the delegates.

The agreement not to disagree appeared to represent a victory for the Russians. The Chinese had come to the conference intent on dragging the treaty through the mud.

The decision to avoid reference to the controversial pact was made in an 11-member drafting committee of the congress' foreign session.

American representative Russ Nixon of Brooklyn, N.Y., claimed he played a major role in persuading the Chinese and Russians that, since they could not achieve unanimity on the subject, it was better to drop it.

The Russian and Chinese delegates had been scheduled to speak at the closing session but were persuaded not to in the interest of harmony.

They smiled and laughed as the conference applauded the outward show of unity. The Chinese delegates turned toward the Russians and clapped their hands as the audience shouted rhythmically "heiwa, heiwa"—peace, peace.

Rusk to Brief Adenauer on Soviet Talks

Secretary of State Making Stop on Orders From U. S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk will visit West Germany on his way back from Moscow and personally explain to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer the recent developments in East-West relations.

The State Department announced today that Rusk, who signed the nuclear test ban treaty in the Soviet capital Monday, will fly into Bonn some time Saturday, Aug. 10. He will spend the night in the West German capital and return to Washington Sunday.

The administration, it is understood, decided to instruct Rusk to make his stopover after a study of reports from Bonn indicating that Adenauer's government would not accede to the test ban treaty—at least not immediately.

Rusk flew to Leningrad today for a sightseeing tour of the former Tsarist capital.

Rusk parted company at Moscow's Vnukovo Airport with the delegation of U.S. senators who accompanied him to the signing of the nuclear test ban treaty Monday.

Five of the six senators took off for Washington 15 minutes before Rusk and a party of aides flew to Leningrad.

Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, remained in Moscow for several more days of sightseeing and talks with Soviet officials.

North Korean Troops Avoid U. S. Ambushes

WITH THE 1ST CAVALRY DIVISION, Korea (AP)—For the second consecutive night Communist North Korean troops failed to come south and challenge a heavy American force that waited in ambush on the front line until dawn today.

A heavy thunder and rain storm swept the front giving rise to speculation the North Koreans would strike in the darkness, "not to tip off Castro."

'Swinging Sweet Chariot'

Jazzed-Up Gospel Singing Provokes Religious Group

NEW YORK (AP)—Are jazzed-up gospel songs blasphemous? The question was debated Tuesday night in front of the Sweet Chariot, a supper club in the Times Square theater district.

A Negro religious group gathered before the club on West 46th Street and sang Negro spirituals for 2 1/2 hours to protest the club's profaning of religious songs and symbols of the church.

The church group responded by singing "Swing low, sweet Chariot, coming for to carry me home." The protesters, with nothing to do during intermission, flocked over to the club's back stage, singing with the group's new championed. If he lifted up, sang the church group.

I don't want no more of this kind of thing, he said, and he urged the club to stop it.

One angel, a white man, said he had raised since another day, "I have Gospel Song Will be the same device."

The device does not involve the pay raises recently voted also for elected constitutional officials—such as the governor, members of the state and local judiciary and the members of the Legislature themselves—which has had some public criticism.

Those new salary levels will take effect only when the officials involved with new terms in the elections, although a new legislative expense reimbursement arrangement will take effect when the lawmakers reconvene for a session late in fall.

Anti-Castro Recruiting Active in U. S.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Recruiting of Cubans for warfare against Fidel Castro reportedly is in progress today at secret spots in Miami, New York City, Chicago, and somewhere in New Jersey.

Exiles said several revolutionary organizations were enlisting men Veterans of the unsuccessful 1961 Cuba invasion were reported figuring prominently in the operation.

The information coincided with a series of visits to Central America by exile leaders.

A roster of exile leader visitors to Nicaragua last week sounded like a convention roll call. Nicaraguan President Rene Schick and ex-President Luis Somoza are among the visitors.

Cuban ex-president Carlos Prío Socarras, one of those there, returned Tuesday and said, "Everything is going well, but in the interest of necessary discretion I can say no more."

Refugees recalled a similar situation preceding the 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion, and advised caution to speculation the North Koreans would strike in the darkness, "not to tip off Castro."

Paul Verna, the invaders' spokesman in Santo Domingo, said earlier an island off the Haitian coast was the staging site for the invasion. However, a number of the officers of the invasion force had been living in Santo Domingo.

Coleman, Johnson Leading Votegetters In Four Man Race

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Former Governor J.P. Coleman and Lt. Gov. Paul Johnson braced today for a runoff campaign to see which will be the Democratic nominee for governor.

The Mounting unofficial returns from Tuesday's Democratic primary apparently made them the top two men in a four man race.

With 1,453 of 1,882 precincts reported, Johnson had 110,987 votes to Coleman's 94,966.

The number three man in the race, Charles Sullivan, had 79,153 votes. Robert Mason of Magee, a 65-year-old welder who runs for fun, would provide similar increases had 1,704 for the U.S. Coast Guard, Coast

Rebel-Invaders in Haiti Moving South

Anti-Duvalier Forces Trying To Cut Off North Coastal Area

BULLETIN

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—Haitian troops have crushed a small force of rebel invaders on the North Coast, official sources said today.

A formal announcement of the defeat of the insurgents was expected later in the day.

There were indications from other sources that the invasion attempt had failed.

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Gen. Leon Canabate was reported leading his Haitian rebel invaders in a south-west thrust beyond Cap Haitien today, apparently trying to cut off the north coast and northwest part of the Negro republic.

President Francois Duvalier airlifted at least 150 soldiers from Port au Prince over the rebel lines to the vicinity of Cap Haitien. Associated Press correspondent Robert Berrellez reported from the Haitian capital.

The approximately 300 invaders, their ranks reportedly swelled by Haitian army deserters, were said to be advancing in two columns after apparently deciding against storming Cap Haitien, 90 miles north of Port au Prince.

In Washington, the Council of the Organization of American States Tuesday ordered its special committee on the earlier Dominican-Haitian dispute to investigate Haiti's new charges that the invaders came from the Dominican Republic. The nations share the island of Hispaniola.

Arturo Calventi, Dominican ambassador to the OAS, told the council that Haitian charges were unfounded.

Child Born 5½ Weeks Premature

OTIS AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (AP)—Mrs. John F. Kennedy, wife of the President, gave birth to their third child—a son—today at the base hospital.

The White House spokesman said the condition of the child born five and a half weeks prematurely and that the condition of Mrs. Kennedy was good. The child was placed in an oxygen tent.

Like the first son, John Jr., the child was born before the President could reach the scene despite a mad dash from the White House when he learned his wife, Jacqueline, 34, had been taken to the hospital.

The third Kennedy child had not been expected until later this month. Arrangements had been made for Mrs. Kennedy to come here for the birth.

But suddenly the President was notified four minutes before noon that his wife was being taken to the Air Force hospital near Hyannis Port, Mass., and 19 minutes later, the chief executive was off by helicopter from the south lawn of the White House for Andrews Air Force Base in nearby Maryland, and a jet from there to Otis.

The First Lady went to Squaw Island on Cape Cod early in July with John Jr., 2½, and daughter Caroline, 5½, to spend the interval preceding the birth of the new baby.

The word that the baby apparently was arriving prematurely came when presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger suddenly

Slipcover Idea

To keep upholstered furniture solves problems where soil is fresh and unchanging, keep it in place. Mrs. P. D. says it is at her house. She's about to buy new furniture which she plans to slipcover immediately and asks for advice on upholstery and slipcover fabrics. She'd like them to be similar, so that removing the slipcovers frequently for cleaning will leave the room almost unchanged.

If a single fabric covers the furniture originally, then slipcover it. The slipcovers can take the soil to the cleaners any time you please. Mrs. D., without leaving a sign that they're away. Choose furniture that can wear slipcovers exactly like upholstery covers, and follow the upholstery covers' cut and welting finish precisely. Add turn-under margins and lacings to go underneath the furniture, as the sketch shows, and the slipcovers won't look like slipcovers at all.

Now that I see so many valances, I thought I might use them to make the windows look taller. What color should the valances be to go with a print that has valances in green, even a deeper black, green and white, with a little shade, the room still have black outlines, on sandalwood background? I don't think I'd like red top of the walls that makes the windows look too low. How windows look too low.

Cottage Resort Operations Speak Well for State's Economic Health

BY DAVE DUFFEY
Post-Press Staff Service

CONOVER — According to a recent state survey, more than 80 per cent of Wisconsin's housekeeping cottage resorts are operated efficiently and profitably. This speaks well for the health of the tourist industry of the northern counties.

But through much of the north country, a notion pervades that this type of resort which, with the motels, accounts for 80 per cent of the tourist accommodation business as compared to the 10 per cent who use American plan resorts is going to feel the pinch of any slack off in tourist business if it hasn't already.

That the cottage type resort may already be in trouble is indicated by the fact that virtually no new accommodations of this type have been constructed in Vilas and Oneida counties in recent years.

In fact, some resorts, which represent a considerable capital investment, have found an "out" in the face of decreasing revenue by taking advantage of the high going rate paid for lake frontage. Lake lots on which individual cabins or cottages are located have been sold off.

Many small resort operators have in effect "bought a way of life." They vacationed in an area they liked, then decided they'd like to live there but needed some way of making a living. They turned to resort keeping, thinking every day would be sunny and there would be unlimited time for fishing.

They found, however, that the small resort is a precarious way to make a living if they were practiced in a trade or business. They may have turned to that to supplement their resort income and keep from losing their investment.

Common Complaints

A common complaint heard by vacationers who like to fish is that the transplanted resort operators often do not know where, when or how to catch fish out of their own lakes.

In the same category, but with a different background, are the resorts operated by "natives" of the area. They know their woods and waters, often supplement their income by guiding and offering other services to tourists or by seasonal work in the woods or for the state and federal agencies. They've lived on a lower rate of income all their lives and accept it.

Neither group, as a rule, figures on the debit side of their account books the depreciation, wear and tear, their own time spent working as "left-handed carpenters" keeping the place up. They are getting a living out of the business and are satisfied with it.

Because they are satisfied to "get by", this group might be considered a collective business failure, but at the same time they are a vital part of the resort industry's backbone because they provide bargain vacations.

From a business standpoint, it may be doubtful whether the rates and the lack of it, seem to be they charge would give them a working against the continued success or money. But the house which offers the tourist essential keeping cottage type resort properly living quarters, fishing, swimming and draws tourists into the area.

But two extremes, both money in Thursday's article

Harvesting of this year's greatly reduced crop of Colorado Peaches starts about Aug. 19 in Mesa County.

Cold weather has limited the 1963 supply to about one-fourth normal, but quality of the fruit will be excellent. Fill your needs early.

Mesa County Colorado Peaches are distinctively flavored, naturally sweeter, juicy but firm-fleshed. Delicious in desserts, salads, sliced alone or with cereals.

Whaddayasay, Charlie—be Warey Of Fast Really State Sales Man

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

This friendly mine, Louis, which he used to har tend? Well, for a long time there I dint hear nothing, then sunly last week I get the rumble that Louis he is now a really state—you know, sales man.

This here has give me much pleasure because deep in my hard, why I have all ways knew that Louis, he would be a wonderful sales man, especially really state. The reason I have knew this is because Louis, he has got enthuse. He has got this certain knack of to describe things in a stardling way.

I span over by Louis to you know, give him a ham boyage and to learn him that here is a friendly his which cares. Louis, he was trilled that I come over by him.

House Well, what we done in we got to talking on how to sales man in really state.

"First of all," Louis told on me, "you sleze up your customer. Are they flush, you right away which was practical made for tell them about a spacious house them and drew up by a architect. You talk on welwet lawns, and all the shrubby which is on the really state.

He says on me that he has got "You do not," Louis said on it all figured out, that when he me, "talk about 'cozy' because has got a house that is over a 'cozy' in really state talk means hundred years old, he call it "a too small to live in". And you classic in architecture, a season-got to talk on 'wooded acres,' led home of charm.

Louis, he said on me that 'wood- He say on me that he is glad ed acres' means that it has got that he is not a bar tend no more, gonselberry bush ont it and he and that he has got this really says on me that when he says it state thing all figred out in his is "convenient to downtown", why head.

"You have got to talk really state talk," he said on me "Like you don't say that this here so-an- se house which was built by a crazy guy. You say in really state language that it is 'quaint!'"

He say on me that when the customer he ants how much this here house cost, Louis he going to laugh, haha, because it is so cheap. He will make off to the customer that he don't really want to sell this here house and that it has got about 40 people asting for it.

Then, Louis say, he will let on like he really is filled with admire for the customer and that he is going to let him steal this beautiful Louis, uses words which have glam.

So then he is telling me about this year bungalow. It is a quaint and charming, and it is built on wooded acres and drew up by a architect. Classic in style, an older home, welwet lawns on a wooded lot. Louis spoke with poign and what I did was I ast him "how much?"

Louis Laffs

Louis luffed haha and then he bend his head closter and he say, "I haven't got my really state license yet, but this year bungalow is a stead even if a lot of people is clamming for it, $25,000."

So Louis, he don't have his li-bar tenner?

Well, now I sord of wish I didn't buy it because it is a bungalow. The job was a bungle and I still owe on it.

But I don't have no mad on Louis. The spacious wooden lots convenient to downtown has oney got a gonselberry bush ont it but my friend Louis went and made his first sale. It was his last one, too, because he couldn't get no really state license, and him such a good sales man, too.

But Louis has poign. He will al- ways come out good Right now register by Aug 15. Sale, lease able articles, need not be con- sidered under the sales tax. Re- know somebody what needs a good services without a Seller's Per- mit is a misdemeanor.

Racial Strife Hurting U.S.

BY MAX HARRELSON
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP).
—Few events in the United States have commanded such wide attention abroad as the developing crisis over integration.
The impact of the violent and America's racial crisis has damaged the nation's image among the emerging nations of Africa and Asia and diluted the idea that the United States is a leader in world freedom. Yet there is a growing understanding of the problem, not only among our allies, but among some U.N. diplomats who have experienced racial discrimination first hand. Eighth article in a special Associated Press series on integration.

Racial Conflict in the U. S., such as pictured here in Birmingham, Ala., draws wide attention abroad. U. S. officials disagree on the extent of the damage to American prestige but most say the American image is tarnished to some measure by racial conflict. (AP Wirephoto)

U. S. policy makers acknowledge they are concerned over possible repercussions in the non-white nations of Asia and Africa.

How much damage, they ask, have recent events done to the U.S. image as a champion of human rights? Have these events had any discernible effect on the relations between the United States and other countries?

Officials Disagree
U. S. officials disagree on the extent of the damage, but influential leaders such as Secretary of State Dean Rusk and U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson believe the United States definitely is being hurt abroad by the racial conflict.

The situation is complicated by several factors likely to make some countries more sensitive to U.S. events.
The independence explosion which has brought to the world scene in the past decade a large contingent of new nations whose people had been under the white man's rule for generations. In many cases there were strong racial resentments.

The personal experience of many Asian and African visitors, especially diplomats, who came face to face with racial discrimination in the United States and were left with a bitter taste. Rusk reported scores of such incidents in the past two years.

Apartheid Policies
The preoccupation of the African and Asian countries with the Apartheid (racial segregation) policies of South Africa. This not only makes them more conscious of the developments in the United States, but it renders it difficult for the United States to form its own independent policies on South Africa and related world problems.

Communist efforts to exploit the U.S. racial problem with the aim of discrediting the United States in the eyes of Asians and Africans.

Rusk told a congressional committee recently that the Communists regard racial discrimination "as one of their most valuable assets." He warned that unless Congress acts to remove discriminatory practices "hostile propaganda might be expected to hurt us more than it has hurt us until now."

Stevenson says he finds U. N. diplomats generally tolerant and understanding, but even they have been "shocked by what they have seen and heard in recent months."

Even more serious, he believes is the false impression created abroad about the attitude of the bulk of the American people and the official policy of the government. This must be corrected as promptly as possible, he says.

Four Main Themes
Ralph J. Bunche, American Negro who is an undersecretary of the United Nations, says "repression" of the Negro have hurt the United States "because the basic image of the United States is that of a Democratic nation leading the cause of world freedom."

During the summer meeting of African leaders in Addis Ababa, the U. S. racial crisis was widely discussed. Milton Obote, prime minister of Uganda, said: "The loss in the successful promotion of the United States image in Africa is more than a shadow on the Negro problem than it has ever been."

The African and Asian countries, he said, are more sensitive to the U.S. government's racial policies than they are to the U.S. government's foreign policy.

"The inferiority of the black man was written into the constitution of the South African Union."
Rusk says the Communists have used four main themes in exploiting U.S. racial tensions:
1. Racism is inevitable under American capitalism.
2. Inaction by the government is tantamount to the support of the "racists."
3. Racial incidents have exposed the "hypocrisy" of U.S. claims to world leadership.
4. The attitude toward Negroes in the United States is indicative of the attitude toward colored peoples everywhere.
In the United Nations a few weeks ago, Soviet delegate Platon D. Morozov told a committee the "unbridled racism" in the United States has proved there is "no moral basis" to claims that the United States is the defender of human rights in the world. This theme has been stressed in the Soviet press.

No Evidence
There is no evidence so far that the Soviet campaign has driven a wedge between the United States and other friendly countries or that any are ready to follow Soviet suggestions that the United Nations should get out of the United States because of racial discrimination.

This idea was brought up by the Soviets two years ago after African delegations received a scurrilous unsigned letter threatening their safety. Some Africans were angered by the letter, but Stevenson soothed them by denouncing the senders and stating that the FBI was making a thorough inquiry.

Discrimination in housing and restaurants, however, continues to cause ill-feeling both in Washington and New York where large numbers of nonwhite diplomats are concentrated.

One African diplomat, Ambassador Gershon B. O. Collier of Sierra Leone, put it this way: "Your American Negroes understand this kind of prejudice and are used to it. We are not."

Today in History
Today is Wednesday, Aug. 7, the 219th day of 1963. There are 146 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1942, U.S. Marines landed on Guadalcanal in the Solomon Islands to start one of the bitterest campaigns in the Pacific phase of World War II. Not until the following February were Japanese forces sufficiently depleted to make further resistance futile.
On this date
In 1782, George Washington established the Order of the Purple Heart, a decoration for military merit.
In 1819, Colombia won its battle for independence.
In 1814, the French invaded Alsace and Lorraine during World War I.
In 1940, Gen. Charles de Gaulle's Free French forces vowed to continue the battle against Germany to victory.
In 1954, England's Dr. Roger Bannister defeated Australia's John Landy in the mile run in the time of 3:58.8.
Ten years ago... The 16 U.N. nations with fighting forces in Korea joined in warning that they would be united and prompt to resist an armistice-breaking Communist attack in Korea.
Five years ago... Fifteen persons were killed when two tankers collided and caught fire in a fog at the Newport, R.I., harbor.
One year ago... Algerian Premier Ben Khedda's provisional government divested itself of its powers in favor of the political bureau set up by Deputy Premier Ben Bella and his followers.

West Germany Agrees to Buy U. S. Equipment
WASHINGTON (AP)—West Germany has agreed to buy $1.3 billion in U.S. equipment and services over two years.
The agreement, initiated in Bonn by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and German Defense Minister Kai-Uwe von Hassel, extended through fiscal 1965 the program under which Germany makes U.S. purchases of about $650 million a year.
The program is considered important to the American effort to bring in money from abroad to spending overseas.

Dairy Strike Talks Begin In Green Bay

Federal Mediators Are Meeting With Drivers, Management

GREEN BAY—Negotiations between Local 75, Green Bay, and Local 563, Appleton, Teamsters Union, and two dairy firms closed down because of a strike against one of them July 31 began here at noon today.

Sitting in on the talks between union and management officials were federal mediators James Despins and Joseph Conley and Wisconsin Employment Relations Board member Donald Lee.

The dispute over wages of truck drivers and inside workers shut down plants of Fairmont Foods, Inc. here and at Appleton and of Morning Glory Dairy Products Co. in West De Pere. Morning Glory is operated by Consolidated Badger Cooperative, Shawano. The strike was against Fairmont and Morning Glory shut down voluntarily.

The dispute involves 114 employees of Fairmont and 80 Morning Glory workers. The old contract expired June 1. Chief issue in the contract talks before the strike had been a proposal to reduce earnings of wholesale drivers in order to bring them in line with the pay received by other workers. The pay scale for inside workers has been an issue. The companies also are trying to effect economies in their distribution costs.

Milk has remained available in abundant supply in this and the Appleton areas despite the strike. Farmers have had no trouble getting rid of their milk.

Oneida Street Tree Has Elm Disease

Another case of Dutch elm disease was confirmed in Appleton today in a tree at 1404 N. Oneida St. The park department was ordered to have the tree removed.

Pipeline Rejected By 2 Valley Cities

Oshkosh, Kaukauna Refuse to Join Appleton in Water Project

Oshkosh and Kaukauna have turned thumbs down on Appleton's invitation to join a multi-million dollar cooperative Lake Michigan water pipeline.

The rejections were contained in letters sent by officials of the two communities to Mayor Clarence Mitchell today.

In another development concerning the city's water problem, the mayor made an informal request to a group of local manufacturing firms to prepare a report on whether the heavy chemical-treated water is having an adverse effect on the paper-coating process.

"I have received unconfirmed reports that our water is causing some problems at our industries," Mitchell commented.

The action of Oshkosh, Kaukauna and Fond du Lac to date in declining to participate in the Lake Michigan-tapping project to improve the supply and quality of water comes as no surprise. Several communities previously indicated they were satisfied with their present supply source.

Appleton derives its water from the Fox River, which represents the overflow from Lake Winnebago. The heavy algae in the lake and river have caused filtering problems at municipal water purification plants in the Fox Cities area.

Recently, the Appleton Board of Public Works decided to make one last attempt to interest Neenah, Menasha, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Kaukauna, Kimberly, Combined Locks and Little Chute in going to Lake Michigan. An eight-community cooperative project would cost $17.5 million.

Should Appleton decide to go the project alone, an $8.2 million expenditure would be required, according to a consulting engineer, to provide the city with an adequate water supply through the year 2000.

Cost of the major improvement would be paid by a revenue bond issue. It would mean that residential and commercial water users would have an estimated 10 per cent hike in their present rates.

City Manager R. E. Harbaugh said in his letter to Mayor Mitchell that last year Oshkosh city engineers reviewed the proposed Lake Michigan project and arrived at the conclusion it would not be economically feasible.

It is my understanding that the same proposal was made by Green Bay to Appleton and Oshkosh and other cities in the Fox River Valley during the early 1940's and that Oshkosh was in favor of such a project at that time, but the plan failed when Appleton decided against it," Harbaugh said.

Harbaugh said since then Oshkosh has made major improvements to its treatment system and is satisfied with Lake Winnebago water. He said the Oshkosh Common Council concurred in his letter.

For the First Time in 24 years, pickets have appeared at the Appleton Machine Co. Sign-bearing union members took positions in front of the firm today after a strike vote Tuesday halted work. Wages and working conditions are the issue company and union spokesmen said. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Combined Locks Value Up $717,455

$12 Million Assessment Would Bring $19,000 More in Taxes

COMBINED LOCKS — Assess- of $27 per $1,000 assessed value- ment of the village for 1963 is $12,131,390, up $717,455 over the 1962 figure of $11,413,935, according to Assessor John Miron.

A general 7 per cent residential increase is included in the 1963 rate. Total residential land improvements is assessed at $3,199,390 this year compared to $2,655,070 last year, an increase of $544,320. Residential land value was raised from $484,045 to $546,620 and residential improvements were increased from $2,200,825 to $2,652,770. Based on last year's tax rate

Erb Park Pool Repairs Cost $4,449

Major repairs which forced the closing of the Erb Park swimming pool for more than a week this summer cost the city $4,449.

The common council's finance committee authorized a special appropriation of $1,499 this week so the Appleton Recreation Department would have enough money in the pool account to pay the bills.

The pool was shut down from July 1-9.

Major trouble concerned the water filtering tanks, but it was also necessary to repair other equipment.

Committee members said it was their understanding the pool now is "in the best shape it has been for many years."

Attendance at the pool through July 28 was 52,874. Mead pool, the city's other municipal swimming facility, attracted 70,506 persons.

Winnebago Ready to Meet With Outagamie on Port

County Board Agrees to Confer With Understanding Regional Airport Now Exists - in Oshkosh

OSHKOSH — Winnebago County will be willing to meet with Outagamie County on the regional airport issue at a future date but on the basis that a regional airport already exists — in Oshkosh.

The county board's aviation committee Tuesday authorized District Atty. Jack D. Steinhilber to draw up a reply to Outagamie County's request for a meeting by Friday based on that premise. Any meeting would also have to include Fond du Lac and Green Lake counties to be truly area in scope, the Winnebago County committee said.

The invitation extended by Outagamie County was in line with a request from Civil Aeronautics Board examiner Edward T. Stodola that the two counties try to get together on a joint regional airport. The Aug. 9 meeting date was suggested because of deadlines on land purchase commitments and contract awardings for the new Outagamie County airport.

The Winnebago County aviation committee instructed Steinhilber to tell Outagamie County there was not enough time to set up a meeting by Friday but "if they desired to meet later, to inform us (Winnebago County) so Fond du Lac and Green Lake counties could also be notified and a representative of the State Aeronautics Commission be invited."

The reply also will include Winnebago County's belief that its present airport is, in fact, now a regional airport and that an engineering survey of the airport is now underway and will be completed about Nov. 15. Finally, Outagamie County will be informed the Winnebago County board has not authorized its aviation committee to make any change in its position on the airport.

Must Walk Committee chairman Alvin G. Staffeld, Neenah, who fought to obtain the engineering survey of the airport, said the only thing that could guide him in this would be the results of the survey and fully determined as to consequences in bookkeeping, loss in value the end of November.

Committeeman E. G. Steinhilber said the position of the county and left other competitive fuel board is that "we have an area for the residence untouched and airport and we intend to maintain it."

"That is the way I feel," said county board Chairman Joseph Drexler, Oshkosh, who also is secretary of the aviation committee. "I can't see anyone's right frame of mind reversing their position now. I wouldn't have the guts to go to the county board and ask for money for a new airport."

Jack Steinhilber told the committee the county expressed its willingness to discuss the issue with anyone in its statement of position but they (Outagamie County) are being narrow in their proposal.

There would be poorer service at a new airport because planes wouldn't land both there and at

Continuing the mayor stated, "If it is legally possible, I sincerely hope the Kaukauna electric and water municipally owned utility can absorb this unfair tax which has been imposed on residential customers. Is it a luxury to have electricity so that we all will be able to have lights, so we can cook, so we can heat our home and do all the household provisions by its use? For health and safety I believe that electricity in the home falls in the same class as food, clothing and medical supplies."

In concluding Bayorgeon said, "I certainly feel that it is an unjust tax because it singles out only one phase of the different classifications for which electricity is used." Unofficially, it was estimated that the cost of paying the tax by the utility would be about $10,000 per year.

Green Bay Man Jailed On Vagrancy Count

Patsy M. Reagan, 63, of Green Bay, was sentenced to 30 days in the Outagamie County jail today after he pleaded guilty of vagrancy. He appeared in Outagamie County Court Branch 2.

Reagan was arrested Tuesday by Kimberly police.

William G. Jesse, 20, 2530 N. Lyndale Drive, Appleton, was fined $30 and costs by County Judge Gustave Keller when he appeared in court on a drunk and disorderly charge. Jesse was arrested early today in Kimberly by village police.

Neenah Committee Chooses Planner for Farm Land

Illinois Firm Picked to Survey Proposed Area

NEENAH — The finance committee of the Neenah Common Council Tuesday night unanimously voted to accept the bid of Ralph H. Burke, Inc. for the site planning study of the 160 acre Swatzen farm tract between Highways 41 and 45 and south of Cecil Street. This acceptance will be placed as a proposal before the Common Council meeting tonight for final approval.

In accepting the bid the committee approved four points of Burke's original seven point plan. The proposal to go before the Council tonight will feature 1. a master plan — including examination of the site and preliminary sketches of the facilities to be constructed; 2. cost estimates of these facilities; 3. a state development plan and estimate; and 4. a final narrative and description which will depict the facilities covered in the master plan.

$3,500 Cost
This narrative will eventually be distributed through the community to inform the citizens. The estimated cost of the Burke project is $3,500.

The three points of the original plan which the committee negotiated are a survey of existing facilities, a full color master plan and a fiscal study to determine the rates to be charged for use of the facilities.

This move eliminated $1,250 from the original Burke estimate. In turning down the points, Warren Sanders, committee chairman, said the city knew what they wanted on the site and so there was no need for a recreational survey.

He added that the color master plan might look good but would serve no useful purpose and that they could figure out what to charge for use of the facilities without the aid of a fiscal study.

Projects
Tentative plans for the Swatzen area call for the construction of a junior and senior high school, a park area and possible swimming pool and golf course.

Burke, Inc., however, will study the area, meet with the council, the board of education and the parks and recreation commission before submitting the final master plan. Their analysis of the chairman of the county foundation will recommend what facilities should be constructed, where they should go and how the city can best utilize the land available.

Withdraw Go-Kart Bill in Menasha

Committee Seeks Further Study Before Ordinance Put in Effect

MENASHA — Ald. Robert Probst, chairman of the Menasha safety committee, Tuesday night withdrew from the council a proposed ordinance that would have banned go-karts in the city.

The ordinance would have banned all vehicles powered by a two cycle internal combustion engine, used primarily for transportation, not licensed by the state department of motor vehicles and operated in residential or multi-residential areas.

The ordinance was withdrawn after the committee requested further study by the public safety committee. Tuesday night withdrawal from the council session, also approved the advertisement of bids for alterations to Elisha D. Smith Public Library, with bids returnable Aug. 20 by 4:30 p.m.

Plans for Shepard Park Pavilion were referred back to the planning commission and board of public works for recommendation a request and plans by Central Paper Co. for a dock layout on Fourth Street.

City Officials Liked

Property Owner Balks At Sidewalk Project

James P. Meiers doesn't like sidewalks. His reason: They cost money. Meiers, who resides at 286 W. Wisconsin Ave. and owns several pieces of property in Appleton, met with the council's street-sanitation committee.

It seems Meiers has rental property at 294 W. Grant St. and the home is the only one in the entire block without a sidewalk in front of it.

This disturbs Ald. Arthur Mueller (19th) and other city officials who are starting a crackdown on property owners who have deferred putting in sidewalks for years.

The board of public works has been requested to condemn 55 feet of frontage, measuring three feet in width, at the Grant Street property so a sidewalk can be installed at Meiers' expense.

Meiers, in his appearance before the committee, steadfastly refused to deed the strip of land over to the city for sidewalk purposes. "There's nothing in it for me," he said.

A self-styled businessman, Meiers insisted the city pay him for the land. "Yes sir, I expect to be paid," Meiers said. He estimated he should receive $100 to $150 from the City of Appleton.

Reminded that other property owners on the block deeded land and had sidewalks put in, Meiers was not impressed. "If 10 people jump off the bridge, that's no sign I should do it, too," was his retort.

Mayor Mitchell Opposes Paying $67 Repair Bill

Word got out today that Mayor Clarence Mitchell is opposed to paying a $67 truck repair bill for a city employee, so the common council's street-sanitation committee has changed its mind about recommending payment.

As of Monday it appeared the city would be left holding the bill because an unknown person "borrowed" a truck from the municipal garage on July 16, took an unauthorized trip, and bumped into another city employee's

"There is no reason why youngsters have to be forced to walk through the mud or out in the road during the rain just because you refuse to put in a sidewalk," Mueller told Meiers.

"I wonder what would happen if we had to deal with everyone like you," Mueller asked. "I would say that then you would have a headache," Meiers replied.

Meiers said if city officials wanted to get after people without sidewalks, they should concentrate on the 600 block of Grant Street.

Right To Condemn
"Would you want to have to walk past your property in the rain?" Mueller inquired of Meiers, adding, "I'm sure you wouldn't."

"I'd drive my car," was Meiers' terse reply. At this point Public Works Director Robert W. Bues suggested to Meiers that he probably would end up spending more money if the city took the matter to court. He reminded that the city had the right to condemn the strip of property for sidewalk purposes and inquired why Meiers was encouraging such an action.

"I would have the self-satisfaction of fighting it," Meiers told Bues. "Besides, I might get an attorney to defend me in court for nothing," Meiers added.

The committee then made its decision to have condemnation proceedings started.

Seek to Make Town Pay on School Costs

Resolution Sought From Menasha Group

MENASHA — City Atty. Richard Steffens Tuesday night recommended the common council pass a resolution bringing in the Town of Menasha or the Maplewood section for vocational purposes as well as school purposes. The Maplewood section, the eastern part of the township, presently is part of the Menasha joint public school district.

"If the common council and the board of education decide to pass this resolution, we would automatically force a contribution in excess of $20,000 to our (Menasha) budget."

Steffens submitted figures to show the City of Menasha has an equalized valuation of $85,918,900. The Maplewood District has a valuation of $27,632,400. This means that the total valuation of the city and the Maplewood District is $113,551,300. On a percentage basis, this means the Maplewood District has a valuation of .2435 in relation to the city valuation. Steffens pointed out.

$124,000 Budget
He added the total vocational and adult budget for this year is $124,350. The receipt in state aid cut that by some $40,000. This means the City of Menasha at present is billed for $84,321.51.

"We have no control over this budget. We have no control over who sits on the Board of Vocational Education. This board is appointed by the board of education."

"The Maplewood share of the vocational budget based on 1962-63 values, if we would pass the resolution and the board of education should pass the resolution, would be $20,532.04.

Steffens said arguments for the passage of the joint resolution include. "Since the Town of Menasha is using the municipal services anyway, why not have them pay for it?"

"The town would help contribute toward the vocational program by $20,532.04, which would be in excess of the benefits that they would receive, and would help make up for the excess benefits they receive by being a part of our joint school system."

Trade War Over Chickens Looms

America to Retaliate Against Common Market for Boosting Tariffs on Poultry of U. S.

BY DARDEN CHAMBERS
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The lowly chicken is causing an international fight.

The United States, after weeks of wrangling with the European common market, announced on Tuesday it will retaliate against tariff increases on American poultry.

The government, if a settlement is not reached, will raise duties against European products to equal the loss of $46 million a year in American poultry exports.

The U.S. move would affect the prices Americans pay for imports, but the dollar amount isn't nearly as important as what the action means.

The lost poultry sales are only a fraction of the $5.6 billion worth of U.S. goods exported to European common market countries each year.

Farm Bloc's

The move reflects a new American attitude and tactic — a get-tough policy. It also reflects these newly complicated circumstances in world trade.

—The Common Market has asserted itself as a strong-willed equal in trade dealings with the United States.

— Europe's farm blocs have made it clear they are keeping a sharp eye out for their own interests, which often clash with those of America.

—Europe, having trouble working out its own agricultural policy, has resisted U.S. efforts to link agricultural and industrial products in trade talks.

—Protectionist sentiment in the United States—in the shoe and textile industries especially — shows signs of rallying.

Some trade observers question the wisdom of retaliation. They say the situation is far too complicated to be solved merely by acting tough.

Clear Precedent

Others agree with Sen. Frank Carlson, R-Kan., that the United States might be "out-traded and sold down the river unless we adopt a hard line."

There is a clear precedent for the Common Market action and the American reply. When the United States raised tariffs on carpet and glass last year, the Common Market promptly boosted its tariffs against American chemicals.

This kind of tariff raising reverberates around the non-Communist world because of international trade rules that say all cuts and boosts must be applied to everyone.

Most observers doubt there will be more than a round or two of tariff retaliations. Still, they say, negotiations can be expected to move pretty slowly. Negotiators on both sides will be defensive, cautious and sensitive to public opinion.

In the early post-war years, Americans grew progressively warm toward liberalizing world trade. The idea of "trade, not aid" to get ravaged nations going again was appealing. When low priced imports began brightening American shop counters, buyers were pleased.

They liked too the way American producers cut costs to meet foreign competition. Many economists say this was the main reason postwar inflation tapered off.

Late 1950s

In the late 1950s, Americans saw something else they liked. European nations seemed ready to quit fighting among themselves and join hands in economic cooperation. The Common Market, founded in 1958 by Italy, France, West Germany, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg, seemed likely to embrace all non-Communist Europe.

Then, early this year, France vetoed British membership in the Common Market. Complaints were lodged against American investments in Europe.

France asserted its ambitions to sell its farm surpluses to Common Market neighbors. American negotiators, asking that farm goods be tied to industrial goods in trade talks, hit a brick wall.

Then German farmers asked for protection against the cheap chickens of America's automated hatcheries. They got a higher levy. When American negotiators complained, the tariff was hiked even higher.

Income Taxes Will Increase Oct. 1, 1963

New Schedules for Withholding Due By Next Week

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin will take a little bigger bite out of state wage earners' paychecks for income tax withholding starting Oct. 1 under the new tax law.

On that date, the State Tax Department will begin to withhold the increased three-tenths of one per cent in income tax rates.

The department plans to distribute new withholding schedules to employers by the end of next week.

The state income tax deduction will be increased about 30 cents a week under the new schedule for a man earning $100 a week and with a total of four exemptions for himself, his wife and two children.

By starting withholding at the higher rate on Oct. 1, the state will collect only about $3.90 from that wage earner for the remaining three months of the year.

But the new income tax rates are retroactive to Jan. 1, 1963, and in April of 1964 the $100-a-week man will owe the state for the first nine months of 1963 and it will not have been withheld.

He will then have to pay about $16.70 in a lump sum to meet his 1963 income tax liability and the $2 income tax filing fee included in the new tax law.

New income tax rates range from 2.3 per cent on the first $1,000 of income to 10 per cent on earnings in excess of $15,000.

Boy Says He Strangled Girl Because of Idea Seen on Television

JOLIET, Ill. (AP)—An 11-year-old boy who said he strangled a little girl because of an idea he got while watching television was committed on Tuesday to the custody of the Illinois Youth Commission.

Because of his age, Kenneth Warner could not be prosecuted on a criminal charge of murdering 4-year-old Lynn Ann Kozlowski.

The child's body was found in a field southeast of Joliet on June 28, after she disappeared from a playmate's yard.

Sheriff Joseph Trizna quoted the boy as saying he killed Lynn Ann after practicing by choking cats and kittens.

Marine Asks Official's Help in Leaving Corps

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Gov. Tim Babcock was asked to help a Montana man get out of the Marine Corps.

"I love Montana more than I do the Marine Corps," the letter to Babcock said. "And I want to come home and help stop the drinking, cattle rustling and other things."

Babcock didn't identify the man, or say if the plea won him over.

Bureau Expects to Prospect For Gold on Ocean Bottom

BY FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Within 10 years, the Bureau of Mines hopes to be prospecting for gold and other minerals deep down on the ocean floor.

The equipment will be a far cry from the shovel, pan and burro of gold rush days. The bureau plans revolutionary techniques for opening a new frontier in mining.

By 1972, bureau oceanographer John Crawford reported in an interview, the bureau expects to have a start on:

—A manned submersible capable of sitting on the ocean floor, 1,000 feet deep on the Continental Shelf, and equipped with a drill to bore through another 1,000 feet of rock on the ocean bed.

—An ocean floor mineshaft with rock dug by the submarine drill forming a support for a pipe-like passageway to the ocean surface through which men could be transported by an elevator.

—Underwater shelters at the mine opening where men could live a week or more at a time.

—Floating underwater laboratories — huge buoy-like devices which could be anchored and manned at depths of about 1,000 feet and serve as bases for lowering equipment to the ocean floor.

All are deemed feasible within 10 years, said Crawford.

Looking farther into the future, Crawford said the bureau hopes to have manned submersibles and other equipment capable of exploring and tapping the vast plains in waters several miles deep.

Furnish Power

He said commercial engineers are planning nuclear power plants for the ocean floor to furnish power for mining operations and heat and light for men in underwater shelters.

Crawford said the bureau's interest in ocean-bottom exploration

Now on Defensive in Korea

1st Cavalry Division Units Fought Indians Century Before Commies

BY ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ancient units of the famous 1st Cavalry Division were shooting it out with raiding parties a century before the current skirmishing in Korea.

Regiments which later were formed into the division carry battle flags from the Civil War. Then they battled in the Indian campaigns. Troopers rode the desert and mountain trails to engagements with the Sioux and Utes—and were with General Custer on his last stand.

They pursued Geronimo, fought the Comanches, then patrolled the Mexican border in search of raiders from across the line.

The regiments—the 5th, 7th, 8th and 9th—came together into the present 1st Cavalry Division in 1921. The 12th Regiment moved into the division in 1932.

Tanks and patrol vehicles came onto the battlefield in World War I, but the division remained essentially a true cavalry outfit—with horses and pistols and sabers and hard-riding troopers—until modern war's technology began emerging in World War II.

Left Home

The 1st Cavalry left its home-land 20 years ago and organizationally, never has returned. Most and in armored vehicles, the division went into action against the Japanese in the Admiralty Islands in February 1944.

Rain forest and jungle was the arena for this phase of the war. Here the enemy sniped from the swarms of "volunteers" from hiding or struck in screaming, Red China.

The division was in the defense of Seoul and helped push the Reds back, finally, over the 38th Parallel.

The official, big-scale shooting for that war finally halted with the armistice.

But the 1st Cavalry Division stands, with the 7th Division and South Korean divisions, along the defensive line.

Along the two-mile wide demilitarized zone, 1st Cavalry soldiers now are doing what their predecessors did generations ago: watch, wait and patrol in search of raiders who strike suddenly.

The enemies this time were the Communists of North Korea and whopping forays like the Indians of the old days.

The division moved up to the Philippines, landed on the shore of Lingayen Gulf and received orders from Gen. Douglas MacArthur to hustle along a hundred miles of roadways to enter Manila.

After WW II

After World War II, the 1st Cavalry with its gold and black shoulder patch, moved to Japan for occupation duty.

It was still there when Communist forces plunged into the Republic of Korea in 1950.

The enemies this time were the and savagely

Water From Old Storm, Wife Tells Spectator

ENGLEWOOD, Colo. (AP)—The sight of water flowing down a sidewalk brought an angry water inspector to a house in this drought-stricken city on Tuesday.

Inside, he found a housewife wearily emptying water left in her basement by an earlier cloud-burst.

GOP Expected to Vote for Treaty

Senator Says Republicans Can't Afford to Oppose Test Ban Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans have assessed the political implications of the limited nuclear test ban treaty and most are expected to wind up voting for its ratification.

An influential Republican senator, who asked not to be quoted by name, said he and a majority of his colleagues have reached the conclusion that "we can't afford politically to vote against this treaty."

"There are a number of risks involved that I don't like to see us take as a nation," he said. "But if the Joint Chiefs of Staff say that, on balance, it is acceptable—and I believe they will—we won't have any choice but to support it."

He attributed this in part to what he called the "mother vote," women who have feared that nuclear fallout might result in deformed children and who believe the treaty may eliminate this danger.

Virtually Collapse

As a result, the senator said, after extensive hearings beginning Monday he expects to see opposition virtually collapse.

Democratic leaders have said they are confident of getting the necessary support of two-thirds of those voting. But they have been wooing GOP backing in order to attain overwhelming approval.

Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said he has had 5,000 letters, divided equally for and against ratification.

Dirksen told a news conference Tuesday he had the Senate Republican Policy Committee staff poll the administrative assistants of 43 senators. He said the staff found 20 whose mail favored ratification, 14 whose mail opposed it and 8 evenly divided.

News Stories

He said he had the survey made because of news stories saying White House mail was "lopsidedly" in favor of the treaty. Dirksen has delayed taking any stand on ratification.

Among 32 Republicans, Dirksen said the mail was 14 to 13 favorable to the treaty, with 6 reporting a standoff. Among Democrats, he said the mail of six favored the treaty, that of two was opposed and that of two evenly divided.

Employees at Green Bay Firm Reject Contract
Strike Authorized By Union Members At Paper Plant
Post-Crescent News Service
GREEN BAY — Union employees at two of Green Bay Packaging, Inc.'s three divisions rejected a company-proposed contract Saturday night and authorized a strike.
About 200 of the 280 members of the pulp, sulphite and paper mill workers Local 319 voted on the offer and strike.
A meeting has been set up with federal mediators for the middle of next week.
Local 319 represents employees at the corrugating and folding carton divisions of the firm. Employees of the paper mill division, represented jointly by Local 319 and the United Papermakers and Paperworkers Union currently are negotiating with the company for a new contract.
No date has been set for a strike. Union International Vice President Elmer Meinz said Saturday night he will seek a meeting with company officials this week. "We're optimistic about a settlement," he added.
The disagreement centers around wages and length of contract. Company and union representatives would not disclose the wages sought, but it was learned the union is seeking a one-year contract and the company a two-year agreement.
Not Affected
Green Bay Packaging employs about 600 persons. Over half at the mill division. In the event of a strike the mill operation probably would not be affected. Meinz said.
Lee Crowley, corrugating division plant manager, said he has no comment until he finds out why the contract was rejected. "Then we'll sit down and try to reach an agreement," he added.
The current contracts with both Tampa, clear.
The bargaining unions at the three divisions expired June 1.

County Fee at Grignon Home Is Questioned

Kaukauna Alderman Says Outagamie Has No Jurisdiction

KAUKAUNA — A Kaukauna alderman, who does not wish to be identified, said Tuesday the Outagamie County Park Committee violated its jurisdiction by establishing a fee for use of a shelter house at the Grignon Home here.

The alderman said the shelter is not the property of the county, but of the City of Kaukauna. The shelter was donated to Kaukauna by the Thilmany Pulp and Paper Company. Kaukauna moved the shelter to the county-owned Grignon property for use, without charge, by visitors.

The common council Tuesday authorized the health and recreation committee to request a joint meeting with the Outagamie park committee concerning the use of the shelter house in an attempt to resolve the question.

The county clerk's office today said it was the county's understanding that the shelter belonged to the county.

Recently the county committee established a $3 fee for use of the shelter house after it was brought to the attention of the county board that the Grignon Home caretaker was accepting a $2 fee for clean-up work.

Several years ago the latter practice had been going on for several years, even before the last caretaker, Kaukauna officials said.

People started to leave $2 with the Grignon Home caretaker, asking him to clean the place rather than doing it themselves. The health and recreation committee did not object to the practice as the caretaker was doing a favor for shelter users and he was not making a charge, but accepting a voluntary contribution, committee members said.

Parking Lots Busy During Appleton Dollar Days Sale

Appleton's downtown was jumping today. Dollar Day values attracted bargain-conscious shoppers from far and near.

While people crowded the streets and stores, cars dotted public and private parking lots.

Meters were clicking throughout the business district and the city's two-level West Ramp at Division and Washington streets was packed with autos.

So was the park-for-free city lot on the north side of Washington Street where more than 300 vehicles were parked.

Rainfall Batters Buffalo, N. Y.

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Heavy rain battered this city of 500,000 today, sending water swirling onto doorsteps and into cellars and forcing evacuation of more than 300 people in an eastern suburb.

Neighboring Niagara Falls also suffered.

Buses stopped running here. Hospitals pumped water out of basements and lobbies. Utility crews cut off electricity to homes to prevent accidental death by shock. Telephone service was knocked out in many sections, and hundreds of motorists were stranded in Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

Correction

A story in Tuesday's Post-Crescent reported that the sinking of a 24-foot cabin cruiser in Lake Poygan Sunday was not reported to authorities when the passengers of the boat were brought ashore.

The Post-Crescent's information was received from the Winnebago County Police Department which said it had not heard of the accident until Monday. However, LeRoy Mielke, owner of the cruiser, said he reported the sinking to the U.S. Coast Guard immediately after being brought to shore Sunday.

Mielke said Tuesday that he hoped to have the boat out of the water by tonight.

For 15 Minutes —

Patrolman Suspended For Ambulance Work

An Outagamie County traffic patrolman was momentarily suspended from his duties Tuesday, then reinstated when the suspension was withdrawn by his supervisor, Capt. Ronald Decker.

Patrolman Edward J. Metko, 43, was ordered suspended for seven days because he worked for an Appleton ambulance service Tuesday during his off-duty hours.

The suspension was to be based on a county board ruling supposed to have been made in 1958 against county traffic patrolmen being hired as ambulance drivers.

Can't Find Rating

The suspension was lifted about 15 minutes after it was ordered when the ruling could not be found among the minutes of the county board proceedings of 1958.

Metko was to be notified of his suspension when he reported for duty at 5 p.m. Tuesday. The suspension was to run through Aug. 13 and Metko was to be suspended without pay and mileage.

Minutes of the county police and traffic committee showed that a motion was made in August, 1958, to forbid county police to work as employees of an ambulance service. The motion, as far as anyone knows, never went from the committee to be voted upon by the county board.

Not Taken to Board

Several months ago members of the county's traffic committee re-emphasized its stand on forbidding employees to serve as ambulance drivers and the committee requested that Metko and another patrolman no longer work as attendants or drivers in their off-duty hours.

The action was brought to the attention of the traffic department, but once again, was not taken to the county board for official action.

Metko and the other patrolman reportedly did not work for the ambulance service since the committee's request. However, Metko was called Tuesday by an Appleton ambulance service to fill in during an emergency call. The ambulance owner said he had received three calls in six minutes and had run out of help.

Decker Advised

Corporation counsel A. W. Ponath said he had been asked for legal advice on the matter by Decker and had told Decker "to be sure you have a resolution that backs up your action." The resolution could not be found among the minutes of the board proceedings, and the suspension was lifted.

According to traffic logs in the Outagamie County Sheriff's Department, Metko worked from 5 p.m. until 2 a.m. when he went off duty.

Parents to Join Children for Evening Party

KAUKAUNA — Under the direction of the recreation department, mothers and daughters will assemble at Riverside Park shelter this evening for a twilight party.

Mothers are to provide the buffet supper of casseroles, hot dogs, beans, salads and cakes while soft drinks will be furnished by the recreation department. Three singers from Appleton will offer folk music. A sing-along will conclude the night's activity.

The father-son day will get underway at 1:30 p.m. Saturday at the library grounds. The affair was moved up this year since the past years the evening darkness interfered with activity. Events scheduled include a baseball game, sack races, hobbling for apples, relay races and trampolining. Entertainment is set and refreshments will be served.

Opens Bids for Demolition of Old Germania Hall

MENASHA — Bids are being opened today and the contract will be let for the demolition of old Germania Hall, 320 Chute St.

Walter Stommel, president of the Germania Society, said the membership hopes work on the old hall can begin next week. The equipment has been moved to the new hall at the back of the Chute Street location, the east parking lot is complete and when the old hall has been levelled work on the large parking area will begin.

A rummage sale will be held at 9 a.m. Saturday in old Germania hall and the society is offering an assortment of tables, chairs, bar equipment and dishes.

On Monday night the society held its first meeting in the new hall and it has already served a wedding party. The society will continue to meet in its new building on the first and third Mondays of each month.

Sept. 21 has been set for the grand opening.

Menasha Approves Funds For Sewage Pilot Plant

MENASHA — Members of the common council Tuesday night approved the withdrawal of $11,500 from the general fund to pay Menasha's share of construction of a $23,000 sewerage treatment pilot plant in the Twin Cities.

The Neenah council is expected to act on procurement of the remaining money at its meeting tonight.

Purpose of the plant will be to set up secondary treatment requirements for sewerage in the Twin Cities, which contains a large percentage of industrial wastes.

The plant would be abandoned after about three months operations, but by using it to test treatment methods, the cities expect to save several times the cost when a large plant is built.

Once treatment methods are determined, the joint cities will build a plant costing approximately $1,800,000.

The State of Wisconsin has ordered the municipalities to develop a secondary treatment process.

A primary process is now used.

The Twin City Sewerage Commission expects to salvage approximately $10,000 of the plant equipment when the project is abandoned.

The $1,800,000 plant, if and when built, is expected to satisfy Twin City needs through 1985.

Construction of the pilot plant is expected to begin shortly after the Neenah council releases its share of the $23,000.

An accident on E Glendale Avenue at N Morrison Street Saturday involved cars being driven east on E Glendale Avenue by Mrs. Mary E. Weger, 30, Cincinnati, Ohio, and John Hubers, 17, 235 Edgewater Drive, Menasha, who was driving south on N. Morrison Street. Four persons were injured in the accident.

A Post-Crescent story Sunday said Mrs. Weger was going south.

Vocational School Shifts Classrooms

Plans for Addition Delayed To Give More Study to Needs

Several classrooms in Appleton Vocational and Adult School have been shifted and remodeled to provide space for new programs and to give more time for planning a proposed new addition.

Original plans called for completion of a new wing on the AVS main building by September of 1964. Changes made this summer will make it possible to delay the addition until September of 1965, with this year to be used for planning and next year for building, AVS director Carl Bertram said.

The auditorium in the main building has been converted into an electronics laboratory, one of the clothing laboratories into a laboratory for the new data processing course and the second clothing laboratory into an extra classroom.

Since this will leave the school without an auditorium, school officials have asked Trinity Lutheran Church for permission to use the large meeting room in its parish hall for assemblies. Seating about 250 persons, it would be needed by the school about six times a year, Bertram said.

Sunday Classes

Trinity Lutheran Church, located directly north of the vocational school, used school facilities for some of its Sunday school classes during its recent construction program.

"We will be handicapped without an auditorium," Bertram said, "but our auditorium was not large enough anyhow." The entire student body was not able to attend all-school programs because of the limited space, he noted.

Installation of the electronics laboratory was one of the requirements for approval of the AVS course as a technical institute (a two-year program for which students receive associate of arts degrees). The electronics work had been conducted in the electrical laboratory, but separate facilities were felt to be necessary by the evaluation committee.

Install Equipment

Some $3,500 in electrical and electronics equipment will be installed in the laboratories this year.

The clothing laboratory in the northwest corner of the main building has been converted for use in the data processing program. The accounting machine has been received by the school, and a key punch, sorter and computer eventually will be installed for the program.

Other Changes

Bertram will propose to the board that a large classroom in the shop building be used as the clothing laboratory. Two lab classes can be conducted there simultaneously, he said. The room has been used as a general classroom and for upholstery classes. It can be used all day for adult activities, Bertram said.

New asbestos-lined sections have been installed in the welding laboratory for use in a new course in heliarc welding with inert gas.

The changes this summer cost about $2,000, the director said.

The board of vocational and adult education has recognized the need for additional space and approved a study on what is needed. Bertram recommended last March that the board ask the city council for authority to retain an architect and proceed with plans for the addition. More space is needed for technical and adult programs, he said.

The new wing will cost an estimated $250,000 for construction and $100,000 for equipment.

New Tax Rules Will Allow Most Deductions

BY SYLVIA PORTER

The cost of taking your customers, business associates or clients to night clubs, theatres, sporting events or other forms of entertainment must now meet one of two completely new tests in order to be deductible by you.

Until this year your business entertainment expenses were deductible if they simply qualified as "ordinary and necessary." But beginning with 1963, they must also be either (1) "directly related" to the active conduct of your trade or business or (2) "associated with" the active conduct of your trade or business, if the entertainment di-

How close together must the entertainment and discussion be? The Treasury says it's all right if they take place the same day. It's even willing to accept entertainment the evening before or after the day of the business discussion if your business associates have come from out of town.

With a worthwhile business discussion before or after the entertainment, you qualify your entertainment for deduction under the "associated with" test — regardless of how noisy the entertainment is, regardless of the fact that you don't discuss any business whatsoever during the entertainment and so forth.

This underlines the main practical reason why you shouldn't try to rely on the "directly related" test for your business entertainment expense deductions. That test requires you to engage actively in a business discussion during the entertainment period itself.

Avoid Hassles
The Treasury then points out, and understandably, that night clubs, theatres, sporting events and social cocktail gatherings are highly unlikely spots for the necessary discussions. To avoid any hassles over this aspect, it makes much more sense to have your discussion before or after the entertainment if possible, and come under the "associated with" test.

If you are a businessman who can't get in a substantial business meeting before or after the entertainment, here's what the Treasury insists you must show in order to deduct your entertainment outlays as a "directly related" expense.

(1) You had more than a general expectation of deriving income, or other specific business benefits (excluding goodwill) at some indefinite future time, and

(2) You engaged in business during the period of entertainment and

(3) The principal character of aim is to build up a new business; the combined business and entertainment was the transaction of business.

It should now be abundantly obvious why I was not so reticent in meeting the "directly related" test.

Grasp this vital point immediately: The "directly related" test is exceedingly tough so you should concentrate on qualifying your entertainment deductions under the "associated with" test.

Key to Deduction

You'll find, I believe, that 90 per cent or more of your business entertainment will continue to be deductible, despite the tough new rules, if you plan properly to come under the "associated with" test.

Here's the key to the deduction: Make sure that you have a "substantial" and "bona fide" business discussion with your customer, prospect or client, directly before or after the entertainment. You don't have to clinch an actual deal at this discussion as long as you look for some possibility of income or other benefit from the discussion.

Main Reason

This rule holds whether your aim is to build up a new business; the combined business and entertainment was the transaction of business to encourage the continuation of business; or whether you want only to encourage the continuation of business; or whether you want only to encourage the continuation of business; or whether you want only to encourage the continuation of business.

Oshkosh '9' Shoots For Title Tonight

Scores 16-4
Win Over Kenosha

BY RALPH MUELLER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Booming Oshkosh bats could probably be heard as far off as Lima, Ohio, Tuesday night as the Cook-Fuller Post soundly trounced Kenosha, 16-4, at Goodland Field.

It was the first defeat of the tournament for Kenosha, against three victories, and now sets up a "sudden death" battle for the Wisconsin state American Legion Baseball tournament crown.

The winner of tonight's game moves on to the national regional tournament at Lima, O. August

Beck Malnory

5 in First Inning
Oshkosh left little doubt as to the winner of the contest as it powered to five runs in the first inning on a hit batsman, walk and five straight hits. Larry Kopitz doubled before Roger Beck, Dennis Neitzel, Dave Reamer and Greg Gaitner cracked successive singles.

The Cook-Fuller team added two runs in the second when Hal Malnory singled and was forced at second by Kopitz before Beck slammed an inside-the-park home run to deep center field.

The lead jumped to 12-0 in the fourth when five runs scored with the help of doubles by Pat Schrage, Malnory, and Reamer, and a single by Kopitz.

Three runs on only one hit, a single by Dennis Neitzel, ran the total to 15-0 and an Oshkosh pregame dream was realized.

Oshkosh officials had planned to pitch Reamer for his limit of three innings and follow with Kopitz for his limit of six frames. The gigantic left enabler manager Norm Kumbler to gamble with Bill Gogolewski and the lanky southpaw came through in fine style.

Credited with Win
He hurled five innings and was credited with the victory. He scattered four hits and gave up two runs, both of which were unearned.

Tonight Oshkosh can use Kopitz for six innings and has the

Red Chinese Very Annoyed By Khrushchev's Good Will

BY WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Red China's embassy in Moscow is on Druzhba Street. Druzhba means friendship in Moscow.

In spite of old suspicions and old wounds, there might have been a little more "druzhba" after Stalin died if Nikita Khrushchev had been satisfied to play in his own backyard. He wasn't.

Third of Series

Khrushchev waded into Asia with a bang. His road show — revolution would not be advanced with the yet-to-be-purged Premier by helping "bourgeois" regimes. Nikolai Bulganin in tow — spread Communist economic power should the new word Russians and Asians were brothers. He exuded blustery good will.

The Red Chinese were annoyed

Khrushchev, taking a leaf from the old imperialist book, was out to catch more flies with honey than with vinegar. He was operating almost on the style of the Victorian British. Soviet projects and technicians would go to the aid of India, Afghanistan and subsequently to Egypt and other countries whose governments were basically anti-Communist.

Favor Self-Help

The Chinese grumbled World was not to be advanced with the yet-to-be-purged Premier by helping "bourgeois" regimes. Nikolai Bulganin in tow — spread Communist economic power should the new word Russians and Asians were brothers. He exuded blustery good will.

There was more to Peking's annoyance than that Khrushchev tion directed Communist parties to seek united fronts with other elements in the free world in a long-term drive for supremacy.

The declaration warned, however, that there was no abandonment of violent revolution. It could be used when conditions permitted.

Limited Freedom

To the Chinese, all this limited Communist freedom of aggressive action.

Khrushchev explained: It might now be necessary to compromise with "the imperialists." Those who did not believe communism could win by means short of world war had no faith in the movement. Violence could be used in some cases — but Moscow would call the signals.

The U.S.S.R. had much to lose in world war — the Chinese little. Mao Tse-tung had put forward the idea that China could lose half her population and still emerge from world war more populous than any other nation.

Khrushchev's views, Peking muttered, were the stuff heresy was made of. Khrushchev revised Lenin. "Modern revisionists" — meaning Khrushchev — were as bad as or worse than the heretic Tito of Yugoslavia whom Stalin quarantined.

Mao Got Madder

No Communist worth his salt, argued Peking, would lose an opportunity to move in on what the Reds call "the national democratic revolution" in Asia, Africa, the Middle East and Latin America. "The essence of modern revisionism is capitulation in the name of peace," said the Red Chinese.

In 1958 Khrushchev turned thumbs down on a Communist grab for Iraq in the Middle East, and the Chinese burned. Matters got worse. In 1959, Khrushchev went to the United States and described President Eisenhower as "a man of peace." The Red Chinese howled in anger.

The quarrel subsided briefly in 1960 when Khrushchev used the U-2 spy plane incident to break up the Paris summit conference. But he failed to follow through on his threats and the quarrel with Peking rose in tempo.

Roadblock on Path

To the Chinese, Khrushchev had become a roadblock on the path to swift Communist conquests. To Khrushchev, the Chinese were reckless to the point of endangering the Soviet Union.

In vain, Moscow explained it still supported world revolution, it backed internal subversion, propaganda, economic offensives, local civil wars, stopping short only at the point where there might be danger of world war.

Russians, Red Chinese Shake Hands in Japan

Final Resolution at Anti-Bomb Meeting Ignores Test Pact

HIROSHIMA, Japan (AP)—Red Chinese and Soviet delegates shook hands in private at the ban-the-bomb conference today and agreed to a watered-down resolution that ignored the Big Three nuclear test ban treaty.

The divided, communist-dominated conference unanimously adopted a resolution condemning U.S. plans to continue underground tests and pledging the delegates to "resolutely block the French plan, supported by the imperialists headed by the United States, to further test weapons in the Sahara and the Pacific."

The 6,000 Japanese and 71 foreign delegates to the 9th World Congress Against Atom and Hydrogen Bombs also called for the establishment of nuclear-free zones in parts of the world.

Good Humor

The Chinese and Soviet delegates appeared in good humor after side-stepping a showdown that had been expected during three days of angry words over the test ban treaty. The Chinese had denounced it as a fraud and the Russians defended it as a first step toward a total ban, a goal of all the delegates.

The agreement not to disagree appeared to represent a victory for the Russians. The Chinese had come to the conference intent on dragging the treaty through the mud.

The decision to avoid reference to the controversial pact was made in an 11-member drafting committee of the congress' foreign session.

American representative Russ Nixon of Brooklyn, N.Y., claimed he played a major role in persuading the Chinese and Russians that, since they could not achieve unanimity on the subject, it was better to drop it.

The Russian and Chinese delegates had been scheduled to speak at the closing session but were persuaded not to in the interest of harmony.

They smiled and laughed as the conference applauded the outward show of unity. The Chinese delegates turned toward the Russians and clapped their hands as the audience shouted rhythmically "heilwa, heilwa" — peace, peace.

Castro's Mother Dies in Havana

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro's mother, Senora Lina Ruz De Castro died Tuesday night in Havana, Cuban radio said today.

A brief announcement heard here, said she would be buried this afternoon in the family plot near the community of Biran in Oriente Province.

Senora Ruz was the widow of Angel Castro and mother of Raul Castro, Cuban armed forces minister; Fidel, one other son, and four daughters.

Pay Hikes for Most Service Personnel Okayed by Senate

$1.2 Billion a Year Increase For Military in New Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has approved unanimously a pay raise for practically everyone in the armed forces except recruits, apprentice seamen and privates with less than two years service.

The measure, which would increase military payrolls more than $1.2 billion a year, goes to the House, which has passed a similar but slightly less generous bill.

Usually a Senate-House conference committee works out differences between similar bills. But Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., who steered the pay raise through the Senate Tuesday by an 84-0 vote, said he hopes a conference will not be necessary this time and that the House will accept the Senate bill.

Decision by Vinson

The decision on what the House will do probably rests with Rep. Carl Vinson, D-Ga., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, who rules with a firm hand.

The Senate and House bills would provide increases to most active duty personnel to reservists and National Guardsmen and to those drawing military retirement pay.

The increases—the first since 1958—would begin Oct. 1 under the Senate bill.

Under the Senate bill, enlisted men would get boosts of $5 to $120 monthly. Raises for officers would range from $60 to $120 monthly.

The Senate and House bills would provide similar increases for the U.S. Coast Guard, Coast Guard Reserve and National Guard.

Runoff Vote to Decide Winner in Mississippi

Coleman, Johnson Leader Votegetters in Four Man Race

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Former Governor J.P. Coleman and Lt. Gov. Paul Johnson braced today for a runoff campaign to see which will be the Democratic nominee for governor.

Mounting unofficial returns from Tuesday's Democratic primary apparently made them the top two men in a four man race.

With 1,453 of 1,882 precincts reported, Johnson had 110,987 votes to Coleman's 94,966.

The number three man in the race, Charles Sullivan, had 79,153. Robert Mason of Magee, a 65-year-old welder who runs for fun, had 1,704.

The runoff election will be held

Premature Birth of 3rd Child Likely

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. John F. Kennedy, vacationing on Cape Cod, was suddenly hurried to the hospital at Otis Air Force Base today because of prospective premature birth of her third child. The President flew from here to be with her.

The third Kennedy child had not been expected until later this month. Arrangements had been made for Mrs. Kennedy to come here for the birth.

But suddenly the President was notified four minutes before noon that his wife was being taken to the Air Force hospital near Hyannis Port, Mass., and 19 minutes later, the chief executive was off by helicopter from the south lawn of the White House for Andrews Air Force Base in nearby Maryland, and a jet from there to Otis.

Army Helicopter

As he boarded the Army helicopter, he picked up a telephone in it and put through a call to someplace—perhaps to Otis Field.

The First Lady went to Squaw Island on Cape Cod early in July with John Jr., 2½ and daughter Caroline, 5½, to spend the interval preceding the birth of the new baby.

There were expectations that she probably would remain until the weekend after next, then come back here.

The announced plans were that her child would be delivered at Walter Reed's Army Hospital here.

Newsman Called

The word that the baby apparently was arriving prematurely came when presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger suddenly

Future Negotiations Between East and West Expected to be Harder

Khrushchev's Insistent Call for Nonaggression Pact Main Issue

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—As East-West negotiations go, the recent conclusion of a limited nuclear test ban treaty with the Soviet Union was a breeze. The next round won't be so easy.

Premier Khrushchev's insistent call for an East-West nonaggression treaty seems certain to provide the central issue in negotiations at the next stage.

The problem is finding out how in our opinion should be to conclude a nonaggression pact between the member states of NATO and the states belonging to the Warsaw Treaty.

Publicly Flexible

While the United States position on his proposal is publicly flexible, American leaders undoubtedly are opposed to the pact in the form in which Khrushchev wants it.

The public flexibility is due to a desire here to keep Western negotiations with the Soviet government moving forward and to find out whether a modified nonaggression agreement acceptable to both sides might be worked out.

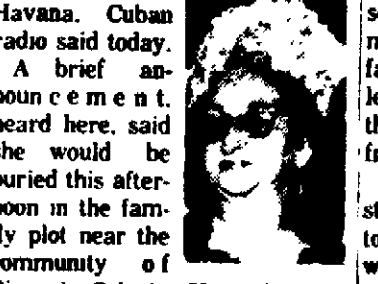

What course Khrushchev eventually takes depends on his real goals, about which Washington officials are uncertain. If, as many suspect, he is angling for some kind of recognition of Communist East Germany, the United States and its allies will face extreme difficulty in coming to terms with him in the next round. The Western powers do not recognize East Germany, a member of the Warsaw Treaty.

Good Will Gesture

In the view of some of the best informed authorities here a nonaggression pact would be meaningless except as a kind of good will gesture toward peace. All the countries which are members of the United Nations, including the Soviet Union and the United States, are already committed to nonaggression by the U.N. charter.

French President Charles de Gaulle has made clear his opposition to the pact.

Khrushchev has made his main point clear. At the signing of the test ban pact Monday in Moscow he declared that "the next step,

Anti-Castro Recruiting Active in U. S.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Recruiting of Cubans for warfare against Fidel Castro reportedly is in progress today at secret spots in Miami, New York City, Chicago, and somewhere in New Jersey.

Exiles said several revolutionary organizations were enlisting men. Veterans of the unsuccessful 1961 Cuba invasion were reported figuring prominently in the operation.

The information coincided with a series of visits to Central America by exile leaders.

A roster of exile leader visitors to Nicaragua last week sounded like a convention roll call. Nicaraguan President Rene Schick and ex-President Luis Somoza are avowed Castro foes.

Cuban ex-president Carlos Prío Socarras, one of those there, returned Tuesday and said, "Everything is going well, but in the interest of necessary discretion I can say no more."

Refugees recalled a similar situation preceding the 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion and advised caution against publicity in order "not to tip off Castro."

North Korean Troops Avoid U. S. Ambushes

WITH THE 1ST CAVALRY DIVISION. Korea (AP)—For the second consecutive night Communist North Korean troops failed to come south and challenge a heavy American force that waited in ambush on the front line until dawn today.

A heavy thunder and rain storm swept the front giving rise to speculation the North Koreans would strike in the darkness.

'Swinging Sweet Chariot'

NEW YORK (AP)—Are jazzed-up gospel songs blasphemous? The question was debated Tuesday night in front of the Sweet Chariot, a supper club in the Times Square theater district.

A Negro religious group gathered before the club on West 46th Street and sang Negro spirituals for 2½ hours to protest the club's "prostituting of religious songs and symbols of the church."

The club's entertainers and waitresses—the latter called "angels"—and wearing skimpy costumes with wings—came outside to engage in a song duel.

Counter-Singing

"Oh, when the saints go marching in," sang the 22 employees, in the same fashion as the jazzed-up gospel songs which the club features.

The church group responded "Swing low, sweet chariot, comin' for to carry me home."

Theatergoers with nothing to do during intermission, flocked over. They quickly took sides, singing with the group they championed.

"If I be lifted up," sang the church supporters.

"I don't want no coward soldiers in this land," chorused the club's group.

One "angel" carried a sign reading, "Have Gospel Song. Will Travel."

Another held a sign saying "We practice integration — Your picketing is discrimination in reverse."

The Rev. C. S. Stamps of the Metropolitan Baptist Church in Harlem, who led the religious group, said the club was "blaspheming religious hymns." His supporters carried signs saying "Religious songs should not be used in a place of this nature."

A club spokesman said many of the so-called gospel hymns were written by Tim Pan Alley composers and are legitimate nightclub fare.

Rebel-Invaders in Haiti Moving South

Anti-Duvalier Forces Trying To Cut Off North Coastal Area

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Gen. Leon Cantave was reported leading his Haitian rebel invaders in a south-west thrust beyond Cap-Haitien today, apparently trying to cut off the north coast and northwest part of the Negro republic.

President Francois Duvalier air-lifted at least 150 soldiers from Port au Prince over the rebel lines to the vicinity of Cap-Haitien, Associated Press correspondent Robert Berrellez reported from the Haitian capital.

The approximately 500 invaders, their ranks reportedly swelled by Haitian army deserters, were said to be advancing in two columns after apparently deciding against storming Cap-Haitien, 90 miles north of Port au Prince.

Second Landing

An unconfirmed report said another rebel force had landed at St. Marc, a port about 40 miles northwest of Port au Prince and due southwest of Cap-Haitien, Haiti's second largest city.

Duvalier is known to have a

Legislature Circumvents State Constitution To Give Government Officials Salary Raises

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The Legislature wound up its regular 1963 session Tuesday by again circumventing the plan language of the state constitution which prohibits the increase or the reduction of the pay of any state official during the term of office for which he was chosen.

In a gentleman's agreement with Gov. John W. Reynolds the Republican-controlled Senate immediately start receiving more generous pay envelopes—as will most of the subordinate civil servants whose pay can be adjusted by the Legislature at will without constitutional complications.

Some legislators have felt embarrassed and annoyed by such pretentious procedures, but they mean that most newly appointed state officials could not get a salary raise for six years. Many of the others who have served have not had raises since another Legislature six years ago, employed the same device.

The device does not involve the pay raises recently voted also for elected constitutional officials—such as the governor, members of the state and local judiciary and the members of the Legislature.

Liberal Compliance

Liberal compliance with the constitutional requirement would the lawmakers reconvene for a legislative session late in fall.

Trade War Over Chickens Looms

America to Retaliate Against Common Market for Boosting Tariffs on Poultry of U. S.

BY DARDEN CHAMBERLAIN
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The lowly chicken is causing an international fight.

The United States, after weeks of wrangling with the European common market, announced on Tuesday it will retaliate against tariff increases on American poultry.

The government, if a settlement is not reached, will raise duties against European products to equal the loss of $46 million a year in American poultry exports.

The U.S. move would affect the prices Americans pay for imports, but the dollar amount isn't nearly as important as what the action means. The lost poultry sales are only a fraction of the $5.6 billion worth of U.S. goods exported to European common market countries each year.

Farm Bloc's

The move reflects a new American attitude and tactic — a get-tough policy. It also reflects these newly complicated circumstances in world trade.

—The Common Market has asserted itself as a strong-willed equal in trade dealings with the United States.

—Europe's farm blocs have made it clear they are keeping a sharp eye out for their own interests, which often clash with those of America.

—Europe, having trouble working out its own agricultural policy, has resisted U.S. efforts to link agricultural and industrial products in trade talks.

—Protectionist sentiment in the United States—in the shoe and textile industries especially—shows signs of rallying.

Some trade observers question the wisdom of retaliation. They say the situation is far too complicated to be solved merely by acting tough.

Clear Precedent

Others agree with Sen. Frank Carlson, R-Kan., that the United States might be "out-traded and sold down the river unless we adopt a hard line."

There is a clear precedent for the Common Market action and the American reply. When the United States raised tariffs on carpet and glass last year, the Common Market promptly boosted its tariffs against American chemicals.

This kind of tariff raising reverberates around the non-Communist world because of international trade rules that say all cuts and boosts must be applied to everyone.

Most observers doubt there will be more than a round or two of tariff retaliations. Still, they say, negotiations can be expected to move pretty slowly. Negotiators on both sides will be defensive, cautious and sensitive to public opinion.

In the early post-war years, Americans grew progressively warm toward liberalizing world trade. The idea of "trade, not aid" to get ravaged nations going again was appealing. When low priced imports began brightening American shop counters, buyers were pleased anew.

They liked too the way American producers cut costs to meet foreign competition. Many economists say this was the main reason postwar inflation tapered off.

Late 1950s

In the late 1950s, Americans saw something else they liked. European nations seemed ready to quit fighting among themselves and join hands in economic cooperation. The Common Market, founded in 1958 by Italy, France, West Germany, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg, seemed likely to embrace all non-Communist Europe.

Then, early this year, France vetoed British membership in the Common Market. Complaints were lodged against American investments in Europe.

France asserted its ambitions to sell its farm surpluses to Common Market neighbors. American negotiators, asking that farm goods be tied to industrial goods in trade talks, hit a brick wall.

Then German farmers asked protection against the cheap chickens of America's automated hatcheries. They got a higher levy. When American negotiators complained, the tariff was hiked even higher.

Income Taxes Will Increase Oct. 1, 1963

New Schedules for Withholding Due By Next Week

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin will take a little bigger bite out of state wage earners' paychecks for income tax withholding starting Oct. 1 under the new tax law.

On that date, the State Tax Department will begin to withhold the increased three-tenths of one per cent in income tax rates.

The department plans to distribute new withholding schedules to employers by the end of next week.

The state income tax deduction will be increased about 30 cents a week under the new schedule for a man earning $100 a week and with a total of four exemptions for himself, his wife and two children.

By starting withholding at the higher rate on Oct. 1, the state will collect only about $3.90 from that wage earner for the remaining three months of the year.

But the new income tax rates are retroactive to Jan. 1, 1963, and in April of 1964 the $100-a-week man will owe the state for the first nine months of 1963 and it will not have been withheld.

He will then have to pay about $16.70 in a lump sum to meet his 1963 income tax liability and the $2 income tax filing fee included in the new tax law.

New income tax rates range from 2.3 per cent on the first $1,000 of income to 10 per cent on earnings in excess of $15,000.

Bureau Expects to Prospect For Gold on Ocean Bottom

BY FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Within 10 years, the Bureau of Mines hopes to be prospecting for gold and other minerals deep down on the ocean floor.

The equipment will be a far cry from the shovel, pan and burro of gold rush days. The bureau plans revolutionary techniques for opening a new frontier in mining.

By 1972, bureau oceanographer John Crawford reported in an interview, the bureau expects to have a start on:

—A manned submersible capable of sitting on the ocean floor, 1,000 feet deep on the Continental Shelf, and equipped with a drill to bore through another 1,000 feet of rock on the ocean bed.

—An ocean floor mineshaft with rock dug by the submarine drill forming a support for a pipe-like passageway to the ocean surface through which men could be transported by an elevator.

—Underwater shelters at the mine opening where men could live a week or more at a time.

—Floating underwater laboratories — huge buoy-like devices which could be anchored and manned at depths of about 1,000 feet and serve as bases for lowering equipment to the ocean floor.

All are deemed feasible within 10 years, said Crawford.

Looking farther into the future, Crawford said the bureau hopes to have manned submersibles and other equipment capable of exploring and tapping the vast plains in waters several miles deep.

GOP Expected to Vote for Treaty

Senator Says Republicans Can't Afford to Oppose Test Ban Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans have assessed the political implications of the limited nuclear test ban treaty and most are expected to wind up voting for its ratification.

An influential Republican senator, who asked not to be quoted by name, said he and a majority of his colleagues have reached the conclusion that "we can't afford politically to vote against this treaty."

There are a number of risks involved that I don't like to see us take as a nation," he said. "But if the Joint Chiefs of Staff say that, on balance, it is acceptable—and I believe they will—we won't have any choice but to support it."

He attributed this in part to what he called the "mother vote," women who have feared that nuclear fallout might result in deformed children and who believe the treaty may eliminate this danger.

Virtually Collapsed

As a result, the senator said, after extensive hearings beginning Monday he expects to see opposition virtually collapse.

Democratic leaders have said they are confident of getting the necessary support of two-thirds of those voting. But they have been working GOP backing in order to obtain overwhelming approval.

Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said he has had 8,000 letters, divided equally for and against ratification.

Dirksen told a news conference Tuesday he had the Senate Republican Policy Committee staff poll the administrative assistants of 43 senators. He said the staff found 39 whose mail favored ratification, 14 whose mail opposed it and 8 evenly divided.

News Stories

He said he had the survey made because of news stories saying White House mail was "lopsidedly" in favor of the treaty. Dirksen has delayed taking any stand on ratification.

Among 33 Republicans, Dirksen said the mail was 14 to 13 favorable to the treaty, with 8 reporting a standoff. Among Democrats, he said the mail of six favored the treaty, that of two was opposed and that of two evenly divided.

Gov. Reynolds To Vacation in Jacksonport

Executive Office Journeys North for Rest of August

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Starting Thursday morning, the executive office of the Wisconsin state government will be in modest rooms of the second floor of the Baileys Harbor town hall near the cooling breezes of Lake Michigan in Door county.

Gov. John W. Reynolds will maintain his office there during the remainder of the month of August, his staff said here last night, in order to permit him to spend some time in the Reynolds family summer home near Jacksonport, a few miles south.

Personal Secretary

The governor's personal secretary and one administrative assistant will be with him at all times during the month. The administrative assistants will serve on a rotating basis.

The governor will be available to callers, on appointment, as he has been in his regular executive office suite at the state capitol, it was explained.

The governor's principal task will be the review of hundreds of bills approved by the legislature in the several weeks before its adjournment. Announcements of his actions will be communicated to Madison, where the staff will issue the news bulletins and other announcements.

The governor has also scheduled for this week one of his favorite social events, the annual fish boil of the Door county Democratic party, traditionally held on the grounds of the Baileys Harbor town hall.

Open Air Event

The open air event is expected to attract many of the principal leaders of the Democratic state organization, including Sen. William Proxmire and Louis Hanson, the new Democratic state chairman. It will follow a meeting of the Democratic state committee at the town hall at 2 p.m. Saturday.

No other governor has ever set up a temporary executive office away from Madison, although many years ago there was discussion about the acquisition of a general state headquarters building on one of the lakes of northeastern Wisconsin that could be used by the governor and other state officers. That plan was dropped. The governor of Michigan, by law, maintains a summer residence and office on scenic Mackinac Island.

1st Cavalry Division Units Fought Indians Century Before Communies

BY ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ancient units of the famous 1st Cavalry Division were shooting it out with raiding parties a century before the current skirmishing in Korea.

Regiments which later were formed into the division carry battle flags from the Civil War. Then they battled in the Indian campaigns. Troopers rode the desert and mountain trails to engagements with the Sioux and the Utes—and were with General Custer on his last stand.

They pursued Geronimo through the Comanches then patrolled the Mexican border to search out rangers from across the line.

The regiments—the 3th, 7th, 8th and 9th—came together into the present 1st Cavalry Division in 1921. The 12th Regiment moved into the division in 1932.

Trio in Car Which Hit Mailboxes Near Parfreyville

WAUPACA — Two Wild Rose youths and a Waupaca man were ordered to Waupaca County jail by Municipal Justice George Whalen on charges that a group of mailboxes were knocked down by them near Parfreyville Monday morning.

Frank X. Moser, 18, Wild Rose, pleaded innocent of hit and run and reckless driving. He was ordered held in county jail in lieu of payment of $500 bond. Trial was set for 10:30 a.m. Friday.

Richard R. Basford, 21, 307 Center St., Waupaca, pleaded innocent of disorderly conduct and was ordered held under $200 bond. Trial was set for 10 a.m. Friday.

Pleads Guilty

James E. Jones, 20, Wild Rose, pleaded guilty of disorderly conduct and received a $110.50 fine or 30 days in county jail. He was committed to county jail when he could not pay the fine.

The trio was arrested after Undersheriff William Mork received a complaint.

Undersheriff Mork and Waupaca County Police Capt. Royal Myhill found a broken-off car radio antenna at the scene. Later they said they traced the antenna to the car used by the trio. The police said marks of damage were on the auto, and the antenna had been repaired.

Consult Engineer On Sewage Lagoon

Chilton Council Decides to Hold Talks on Treatment Proposal

CHILTON — The city council Tuesday night decided to consult with an engineer on the feasibility of sewage lagoons, after a lively floor debate on the merits of this type of sewage treatment.

Principal figures in the debate which preceded the council action were third ward Ald. Miles Agee and Vincent Reinkeber, utilities commission chairman. Reinkeber said lagoons are not suited to handle industrial wastes. He said the lagoons are used primarily in small, non-industrial communities located in sparsely populated areas.

To build a lagoon in Chilton would be the same as saying "get out" to existing local industry and "stay out" to any industry that intended to build here in the future, Reinkeber said.

Agee has long been interested in the feasibility of lagoons as an economical sewage treatment method for Chilton and has done some research on the subject. He recently led a group of five city officials on a tour of lagoons at Spooner and Fairchild.

Both ponds, in the unanimous opinion of those on the tour, were free of offensive odors. Spooner is a community with a population slightly greater than Chilton. Agee said adding that wastes from a large dairy plant are dumped in to the Spooner lagoon.

Discuss Issues

The tour impressed the officials and they wrote to two state engineering firms which recently designed lagoons. A reply was received from the Daver Engineering Co. LaCrosse. A representative of the firm will be asked to come to Chilton to discuss the issue with the council.

Agee and Reinkeber disagreed on the size of a lagoon needed to handle Chilton's population. Reinkeber said a State Board of Health engineer said one acre would be required for the population equivalent of each 100 persons. Chilton has a population, equivalent, according to Reinkeber, of 16,000 including the industrial wastes. This would require a 160-acre basic pond and a secondary pond one-third the

Young Deer Guest on Farm at New London

SHIOCTON — The Dale Van Stratten farm northwest of Shiocton on County Trunk M has been a favorite spot for neighboring children this summer.

The attraction which draws youngsters to the farm is a three-month-old fawn which comes from a nearby woods every night to have a bottle of milk, a few lumps of sugar and a lot of fun scampering around the farm yard with the children.

Bambi, which the young doe was named, was found by the Van Stratten children last May in a farm ditch, where it was abandoned by its mother. When found, the small doe was estimated to be about a week old and new death.

She was unable to walk, and the

Clintonville Loans $40,000 To Water, Electric Plant

Utility Says It Cannot Meet Costs Because of Higher Energy Rate

CLINTONVILLE — The city property committee was instructed to continue with its efforts to relocate the alleyway between the Fifth and Seventh streets in the utility said it was not meeting best interest of the city, and that those expenses because of an increase for electrical energy by the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co.

Supt. Virgel Vinquist said the increase is being absorbed by the utility and not passed on to users. Clintonville's utility, along with several other communities, has been opposing the increase. The last brief is expected to be filed with the Public Service Commission Sept. 25 or 26. A decision on the rates will be made by the first is $36,000, Vinquist said.

Would Lose Interest

The cost to date for the increase in the rate of energy and presenting the case in opposition is approximately $49,000. The additional cost before a decision is known is $316,000, Vinquist said.

The utility has money invested in certificates of deposit. If they were cashed now, the utility would lose $2,100 in interest, the council was told.

In view of this, the council voted that the city loan $40,000 at 4 per cent interest until the commission's certificates come due.

Approved Transfer

Vinquist said if the PSC denies the application of Wisconsin-Michigan Power Co. for a rate increase, the amount of the increase absorbed by the utility will be returned.

The council approved a transfer of $5,000 from the general fund to the welfare fund and the transfer of $7,000 from the general fund to the airport fund.

City Assessor-Treasurer James Smart was authorized to attend the 1963 Municipal Assessors' School sponsored by the League of Municipalities Sept. 9-11 at the Eagle Waters Resort, Eagle River.

Want Parking

A petition presented to council asking an investigation of the possibility of locating property for parking in the S. Clinton Avenue and Lens Court area was transferred to the public property committee.

Following a recommendation by the public property committee, the council approved a motion that City Attorney Ralph Lauer and the public property committee proceed with the transaction between the city and the Clintonville Apostolic Tabernacle on property lines.

Board Conditionally Accepts Low Bids for Controversial Project at End of 60-Day Limit

Razing of Old AAL Building Starts Sept. 3

Site Will be Used For Construction Of New Addition

Demolition of a five-story brick building in the heart of Appleton's downtown will start Sept. 3.

Officials of the Oscar Boldt Construction Co., representing Aid Association for Lutherans, reported the target date for razing the building at the northeast corner of College Avenue and Superior Street in a letter to Mayor Clarence Mitchell and the common council.

The corner will be the site of the $5 million office building addition the association plans to construct over a period of two years.

A. K. Jensen, representing the construction firm, said that because of the building demolition, removal and replacement of sidewalks and the new building contemplated, it will be necessary to block off portions of streets, sidewalks and an alley in the area.

The areas to be blocked off surround the office building which presently is occupied by Home Mutual Insurance Co. at 224-226-228 W. College Ave.

"We expect to start demolition work at the site on Sept. 3 and will continue construction during the following two-year period," Jensen said.

Saturday night the local American Legion baseball team will meet the Antigo Legion team here in an exhibition game.

STOCKBRIDGE — The village work because of differences in board Monday night inched near materials, Hostettler said.

Recent Developments

Monday's board session culminated a long series of meetings dealing with the municipal project. Other recent developments included the establishment of a utility district which will pick up the entire tab for the construction and maintenance of the system and selection of a bonding company.

Six farm homes located within the district's boundaries have been exempt from statutory hook-up to the system and the resulting assessments, as a result of board action. This was done rather than change the boundaries of the district.

The Channer-Neuman Co., Chicago, has been selected as the bonding agent to finance the project. About $100,000 in bond will be required.

The utility district will seek as much of the more economical general obligation bonding as possible by throwing all of its equalized valuation behind the project, Hostettler said. The balance of the financing will be by revenue bonding. The latter commands a higher interest rate.

Hope to Pare Costs

Hostettler explained that contrary to popular belief, contracts did not have to be signed within the 60-day limit. Board action accepting the low bids was all that was required during the period if the board decided to proceed with the work.

Low bids totaled $154,448, but the board will seek to pare costs even further by negotiation to have successful bidders submit some work to firms that bid lower unit prices on portions of the specifications, Hostettler said.

Some materials specification changes also have been ordered by the board and will be included in the contracts with the resulting retabulation of totals.

Low Bidders

At the June letting the Joski and Vanrite Construction Co., Green Bay, was the low general contract bidder for the mains and laterals on a $92,406 proposal.

The Hedrich Construction Co., Chilton, was low on two proposals. Its $51,848 bid apparently won the contract for the general construction of the treatment plant. The firm was also low with a $6,969 bid on the plant piping work.

Low electrical bid was $3,325 submitted by Walker Electric, Chilton, but the Kiel and Werner Co., Neenah, has a chance at the

Bloodmobile Visit Set At Chilton

CHILTON — The next scheduled visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile to Calumet County will be Sept. 3 when the unit sets up a one-day center at the Masonic Temple here, Mrs. W. F. Stauss, county chapter chairman, has announced.

A 172-pint quota has been set for the visit, Mrs. Stauss said, adding that donor solicitors will strive for 272 pledges to offset the important part of the tele-shows — potential donors who fail to appear for their appointments — and donors who are disqualified for health reasons.

Donor solicitors, who will be announced once all vacancies are filled, will be working in the city at service to telephone users, the of Chilton, Chilton Town, Stockbridge Town, Stockbridge Village, Charlestown and a portion of Rantoul Township.

Although the aforementioned is the area to be canvassed for blood donors, donors from any residents as well as those at Neenah-Menasha, Kaukauna, Little Chute, Hortonville, Wrightstown and eight smaller exchanges.

$132,977 in Taxes Collected By Calumet

Payments Before July 31 Were 86.1% Of Total Due County

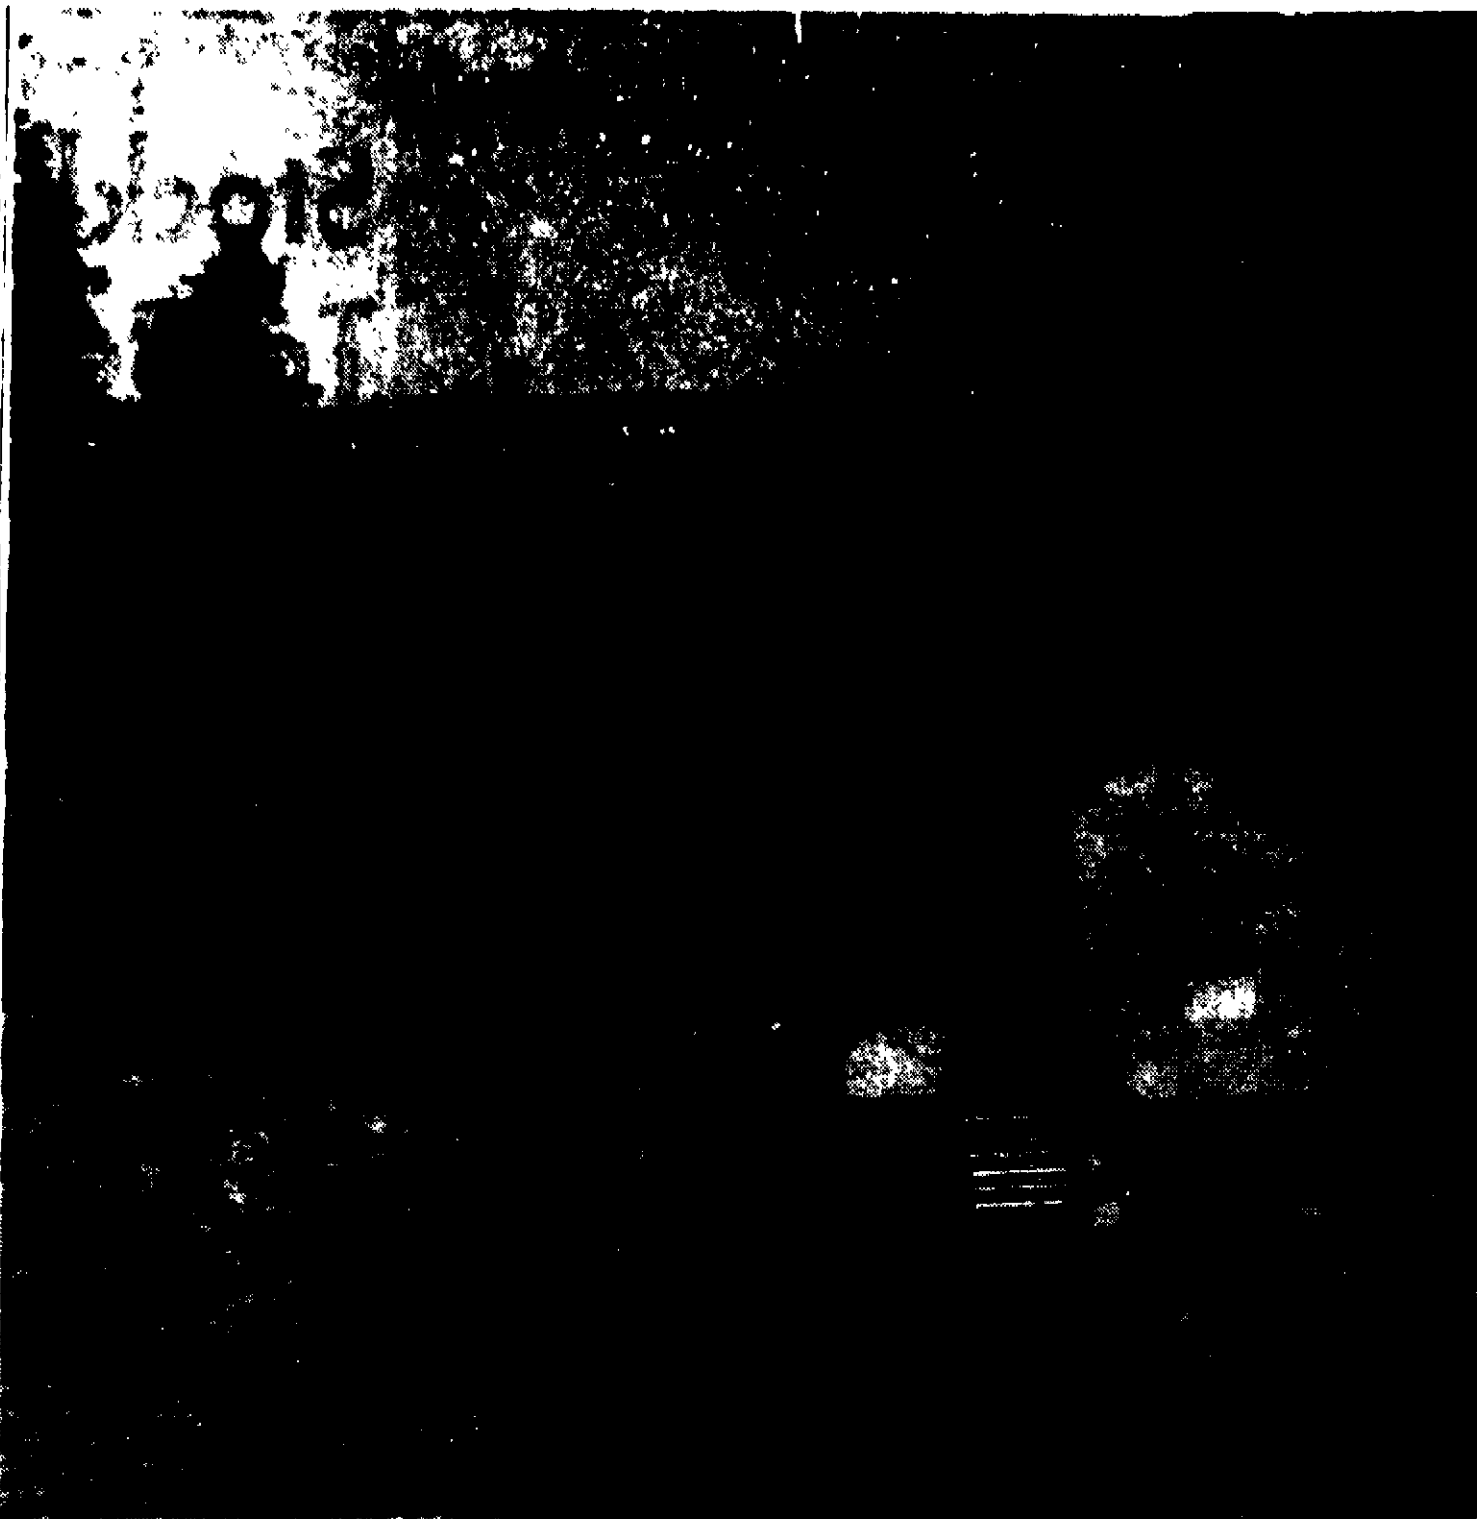

CHILTON — Postponed real estate taxes collected before the interest fee deadline of July 31 totaled $132,977 this year. Calumet County Treasurer Merlin Zahn has announced.

The percentage of collections in relation to the original total of postponed and delinquent taxes — $153,374 — was 86.1 per cent, Zahn said after tabulating the final deluge of mailed tax payments. The payments percentage topped last year when 77.9 per cent of delinquent and postponed taxes came in before the deadline.

Collections of postponed and delinquent taxes before July 31 last year amounted to $95,774 leaving $27,320 due. This year $20,397 remains unpaid. The original postponed and delinquency total is $30,280 higher than last year's $123,084.

$12,939 Unpaid
Of the $27,320 due last year at the interest free deadline, $12,939 is still unpaid, Zahn said. Interest, tabulated at the rate of .8 per cent per month, now amounts to 14.4 per cent on the unpaid balance. After three years the county has the right to a tax deed on the properties.

The $20,397 due in delinquent taxes this year now requires a 6.4 per cent interest payment. This will be hiked .8 per cent a month and tax certificates, a form of tax lien, will be taken against the properties on which taxes have not been paid by the third Tuesday in October, Zahn said.

A 40 Acre Tract of land east of New London, purchased by Mo-Ski-Tow Hill Ski Club last winter, is being transformed into a new ski hill. Two ski runs already are completed and work is concentrated on a

Winnebago Ready to Meet With Outagamie on Port

County Board Agrees to Confer With Understanding Regional Airport Now Exists - in Oshkosh

OSHKOSH — Winnebago County will be willing to meet with Outagamie County on the regional airport issue at a future date but on the basis that a regional airport already exists — in Oshkosh.

The county board's aviation committee Tuesday authorized Dist. Atty. Jack D. Steinhilber to draw up a reply to Outagamie County's request for a meeting by Friday based on that premise. Any meeting would also have to include Fond du Lac and Green Lake counties to be truly area in scope, the Winnebago County committee said.

The invitation extended by Outagamie County was in line with a request from Civil Aeronautics Board examiner Edward T. Stodola that the two counties try to get together on a joint regional airport. The Aug. 9 meeting date was suggested because of deadlines on land purchase commitments and contract awardings for the new Outagamie County airport.

The Winnebago County aviation committee instructed Steinhilber to tell Outagamie County there was not enough time to set up a meeting by Friday but "if they desired to meet later, to inform us (Winnebago County) so Fond Du Lac and Green Lake counties could also be notified and a representative of the State Aeronautics Commission be invited.

The reply also will include Winnebago County's belief that its present airport is, in fact, now a regional airport and that an engineering survey of the airport is now underway and will be completed about Nov. 15. Finally, Outagamie County will be informed the Winnebago County board has not authorized its aviation committee to make any change in its position on the airport.

Most Walk

Committee chairman Alvin G. Staffeld, Neenah, who fought to obtain the engineering survey of the airport, said the only thing that could guide him in this would be the results of the survey and those will not be available until the end of November.

Committeeman E. G. Steinhilber said the position of the county board is that "we have an area airport and we intend to maintain it."

"That is the way I feel," said county board Chairman Joseph Drexler, Oshkosh, who also is secretary of the aviation committee. "I can't see anyone in the right frame of mind reversing their position now. I wouldn't have the guts to go to the county board and ask for money for a new airport."

Jack Steinhilber told the committee the county expressed its willingness to discuss the issue with anyone in its statement of position but they (Outagamie County) are being narrow in their proposal.

There would be poorer service at a new airport because planes wouldn't land both there and at Green Bay. "These things haven't been considered by Outagamie County," the district attorney said.

Steinhilber added he felt Outagamie County's position "seems rather adamant, as it was three years ago. They have their proposal and they will not listen to anything else."

"We have come closer to following Stodola's suggestion than they have," E. G. Steinhilber said. "Outagamie County wants to limit the talks to the two counties while we are willing to talk area airport with the entire area," he added.

"I'm not opposed to meeting with them," Drexler said, "but it seems a waste of time and money to rehash this. I don't see how we can justify this before the county board."

Outagamie Home Picnic Scheduled

Apartment Units To Cost $300,000

Appleton Project Predicated on Changes in Zoning Regulations

Appleton may soon get its first luxury apartments — a $300,000 plus development on the south side.

Preliminary plans for the project, which will be completed in stages, were disclosed Monday by the developers in an informal discussion with the members of the city plan commission.

Two other apartment building projects, in separate parts of the city, are also in the planning stage.

Depend on Rezoning

However, all are predicated on rezoning or variances being granted by the plan commission and the common council.

Site of the apartment complex is 711 E. South River St. The property, owned by Corwin Van Housen, president of the Solding Locks Corp., is the former Poppe estate.

Architect for the apartments, which will rent for $150 to $200 per month, is Thomas Van Housen, an architect with Progressive Design Associates of St. Paul. He is the son of Corwin.

Want Changes

Robert Hoeppner, Appleton realtor representing the Van Housens, said the city's present code would allow three apartment buildings on the site, each containing 12 living units. They would vary from one, two and three bedroom units.

The developers are requesting that the property be rezoned from single to multiple family. There are other apartments in the area. "We have no doubts about undertaking this development for Appleton; there is definitely a market here for luxury apartments," Hoeppner said.

Should the city act favorably on the rezoning request, construction would start on one or possibly two buildings within three months. The fourth phase of the project would be the construction of a swimming pool to serve the three apartment buildings.

Site of the proposed luxury apartments is less than a mile from the central business district.

Also pending is the rezoning of property at 803 E. John St. and 314 S. Meade St. where George Bockl, Milwaukee real estate developer, plans to erect an apartment complex. Similar buildings already have been erected in the Oshkosh and Neenah areas.

Another developer is awaiting word on rezoning requests for land on Richmond Street where he plans to build several two and three bedroom apartment units.

Report Shows Menasha Free Of Elm Disease

MENASHA — A report from state laboratories at Madison today revealed that four suspected Dutch elm disease cases in Menasha trees are not Dutch elm disease.

Park Supt. Harry Kargus said the city does not have any incidence of the disease at this time. An earlier case reported has been removed and burned, he said.

Two suspected cases, located on John and Arthur Streets, do not have Dutch elm disease but may be affected by other diseases — vergicillium wilt or dothiorella, Kargus said.

Two suspected trees in the Clovis - Grove area were reported to have vergicillium wilt.

Menasha park officials became cautious of the trees after several reports of Dutch elm disease were reported in Winnebago County. Oshkosh has been the hardest hit of any city in the county. Donald Tripp, assistant county agriculture agent, said there have been 42 confirmed cases in the county this year.

Cabin Cruiser Sinks When It Strikes Deadhead in Paygan

OSHKOSH — A 24-foot cabin cruiser sank in Lake Paygan Sunday afternoon with no apparent injuries to approximately 10 persons who were aboard. The cruiser was owned by LeRoy Mielke, 818 W. Bell Ave., Appleton.

According to information given Winnebago County Police by William Plank Sr., route 2, Fremont, who took the boat passengers to shore, the boat hit a deadhead in about five feet of water about 1,000 feet from the mouth of the Wolf River.

The incident was not reported until Monday when test drivers for the Kiekhafer Corp. saw the boat underwater and notified authorities.

White Sox Lose To A's; Yankees And Senators Split

Stan Williams Hurls 1-Hitter; Gentile Socks Pair of Homers

BY MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Hoyt Wilhelm doesn't need a catcher with an oversized glove, he needs a mobile wall with arms.

The 40-year-old knuckleball specialist, on whose aging arm rest the American League pennant hopes of the Chicago White Sox, confused batter, catcher and official scorer alike in a 4-3 loss to Kansas City Tuesday night.

The score was tied 3-3 going into the bottom of the ninth when Wilhelm let go with a flutterball that flew past batter Gino Cimoli for a third strike and flicked past Camilo Carreon and his oversized catcher's mitt for what was first scored a passed ball.

Cimoli wound up on first and Wilhelm wound up under a shower after another wild pitch. Cimoli eventually scored the decisive run on a single by George Alusik off Jim Brosnan and promptly told the official scorer the pitch on which he struck out was four feet wide of the plate.

Ruling Changed

The passed ball ruling was changed and Wilhelm was credited with another wild pitch to go along with his 2-7 record and a 2.90 earned run average. And that is part of the reason the White Sox trail front-running New York by eight games.

The Yankees got a brilliant pitching performance from Stan Williams, who hurled a 1-0, one-hit shutout over Washington after the Senators had won the opener of a two-nighter 8-5 on a four-homer barrage against Whitey Ford.

Third-place Baltimore, 8 1/2 back, whipped Cleveland 6-4 as Jim Gentile drove in four runs with a pair of homers. Detroit rookie George Smith collected a triple and two doubles in a 10-1 wallop of Boston and Minnesota defeated the Los Angeles Angels 5-1.

Wilhelm, who came to the White Sox from Baltimore with a 1.94 ERA for the 1962 season, got his chance for a victory when the White Sox belted A's reliever John Wyatt in the top of the ninth.

Wyatt came on for Diego Segui, who had allowed only one hit for eight innings, and was touched by Pete Ward's sacrifice fly and a two-run homer by Charlie Maxwell that tied the score. Then Carreon proved he's not a wall.

Chuck Cottier rapped two homers, including a three-run shot in the sixth that snapped a 5-5 tie. Don Lock and Chuck Hinton got one each for the Senators in the first game as Ford lost his third straight in quest of victory No. 17.

In the nightcap, Williams allowed only a double by Don Blasingame in the third, striking out 11 while walking only one and retiring the last 19 in order. The Yankees scored in the eighth on Tony Kubek's triple off Bernie Daniels and a sacrifice fly by Bobby Richardson.

Gentile, dropped to the fifth spot in the batting order because of a slump, capped a five-run oriole outburst in the first inning with a three-run homer and tagged a solo shot in the sixth. Robin Roberts, 11-9, was touched for two homers by Fred Whitfield and on by Woodie Held and needed Stu Miller's 17th save to beat the Indians.

11 Errorless Games

Smith, in only his second game since being promoted from Syracuse, shared six runs batted in with Rocky Colavito, who had a single and a two-run homer in support of Frank Lary. The Tigers played errorless ball against the Red Sox, setting a league record with 11 consecutive errorless games and protecting Lary's second victory since returning from the minors last month.

The Twins put together four singles and a hit batter for three runs in the first inning and that was all they needed to beat the Angels. Bob Allison's single drove in two runs and Earl Battey's single another. Lee Stange, who had a five-hitter going into the ninth, needed Bill Dailey's relief help to get the victory.

out in the second, tripled and scored on a sacrifice fly in the fourth and singled Willie McCovey into scoring position in the sixth.

A double by Ernie Bowman and Felipe Alou's single produced the first Giant run. McCovey's sacrifice fly drove in Mays with the second and singles by McCovey, Mays and Tom Haller produced the other.

Relief Help

Jim Duffalo, now 4-0 and making only his third start of the season, stopped the Cubs on six hits, but needed the sharp relief help of Don Larsen when he weakened with none out in the ninth.

Shortstop Maury Wills stroked four straight hits, including a double, in leading the Dodgers to victory over the Cubs. He led off with a single, scored the first run and drove in the last as Don Drysdale won his 14th of the season.

St. Louis had 11 hits, but had to work hard to stand off the Mets, who were down 4-1 but scrambled back to within one run. The Cards scored their first run on a fielders choice when Stan Musial beat a throw to first on a potential double play grounder and their second on a wild pitch. The third was set up by a wild pitch and the fourth was moved into position by a base on balls.

The Phillies pounced on Joey Jay for six doubles and a triple, while lefty Dennis Benett limited the Reds to three hits in the nightcap at Philadelphia. Johnny Callison had three doubles and Tony Taylor a triple, double and single at the top of the Philadelphia attack.

In the opener, Philadelphia's ace relief man Jack Baldschun let in two runs with an error and a wild pitch. Pete Rose had a triple and a two-run homer for the Reds.

Pay Major Issue In First Strike at Appleton Machine

Walkout Vote Taken Tuesday When Contract Talks Break Down

Pickets appeared at the Appleton Machine Co. early this morning after a strike vote late Tuesday set the stage for the firm's first labor strike in 24 years.

A few pickets without signs appeared on S. Oneida Street shortly after the strike vote was taken about 3 p.m. Tuesday. Sign-bearing pickets appeared at the plant today and will picket about 15 hours, a strike committee spokesman said.

Negotiations for renewal of a labor contract between the company and labor broke off Tuesday morning, a company spokesman said. The former one-year contract expired June 19. Management and labor representatives have been negotiating for a new contract since April. Three of the negotiation sessions have involved federal mediator Joseph Conley of Green Bay.

A spokesman for the union's strike committee said the union wants higher pay and better working conditions. He would not elaborate other than to say the union was seeking "substantial pay increases." He said the labor conditions "concerned contract language which would affect certain personnel in the shop."

A company spokesman said the latest offer to the union called for a 15 cent per hour pay raise over a two-year contract period. Average pay per hour for the strikers now ranges between $2.51 and $2.68. The company package offers a raise of 7 cents per hour the first year and 8 cents per hour the second year, representing an increase of approximately 3 per cent.

Okays Two-Year Pact

The union reportedly has asked for pay raises of 3 1/2 per cent. A company spokesman said an increased pay demand by the union was made after negotiations began in April.

A union spokesman said the union would favor resumption of a one-year contract, but already has agreed to a contract for two years. Both the company and union spokesman said the length of the contract "is no longer a real issue."

Both company and union representatives said they were willing to begin new negotiations, but that no date has been set. A company spokesman said some work to maintain service and repair orders would be handled by supervisory and other employees.

Stock Market Rally Falter

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market rally faltered in its fourth session early this afternoon.

Early gains were eroded by a gradual decline that produced a mixed pattern.

Trading was fairly active with more than 1 million shares changing hands in the first hour.

Some brokers said it was logical for the market to slow down for consolidation in view of the swift pace of the recent advance.

Steels and motors were mostly lower. Rubbers, utilities, nonferrous metals and oils remained in the plus column.

Bruswick, Tuesday's most active stock, continued very active and, although omitting the dividend, was up a minor fraction.

Amerasia was actively traded and off about a point despite a report of higher earnings.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon held a minimal gain of .1 at 271.6 with industrials unchanged, rails up .2 and utilities up 2.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was off 1.08 at 705.98 after having been up better than a point shortly after the opening.

U.S. Steel lost about half a point and Bethlehem and Republic were off by smaller amounts.

American Stock Exchange prices were mixed in quiet trading.

Corporate bonds were mixed and governments were off slightly.

Woman Named to Consolidated Papers Board

WISCONSIN RAPIDS — Mrs. Henry P. Baldwin was elected to the board of directors of Consolidated Papers, Inc. Tuesday to fill the vacancy on the board left by the death of her husband in April. Interlake Mill in Appleton is a division of Consolidated Papers, Inc.

The Board of Directors declared a third quarter dividend of 25 cents a share payable Aug. 28 to stock of record at the close of business Aug. 13, 1963. This dividend rate reflects a reduction of 10 cents per share from the rate of 35 cents paid during the first two quarters of the year.

Commenting on the reduction, Stanton W. Mead, company president, said, "The financial position of our company remains strong; however, reduced earnings of the past six months warrant this cut-back as a precautionary measure." Mead attributed the earnings reduction to depressed prices in some enamel paper grades, increased wage rates, and lower operating schedules. He said there has been some improvement in operating schedules beginning in July.

Kenosha starter Ray Schnell was the victim of four of the five hits in the first inning before Chuck Lange came in for three full innings.

Gordy Meyer failed to get any of the six men he faced before Mitch Urbanski arrived on the scene and finished the game, allowing only three hits in the final 5 and two-third innings.

Malnorv, Koplitz, Beck, Reamer and "Dizzy" Neitzel each produced two hits in the 13-hit Oshkosh attack. Bob Lutter was the only Kenosha batter to garner a pair of hits.

Reamer struck out seven and walked four in pitching the three hitless frames to lead off the game for Oshkosh.

summoned a small group of news men to accompany the President on the flight to Cape Cod.

The Kennedys' second child, John Jr., arrived prematurely on Nov. 25, 1960.

At that time, Kennedy was president-elect and had started back for his temporary headquarters at Palm Beach, Fla., after having Thanksgiving dinner here with Mrs. Kennedy.

He received word upon his arrival at Palm Beach that Mrs. Kennedy had gone to the hospital here, and immediately boarded another plane and flew back, arriving after the birth.

Salinger was asked whether he considered Mrs. Kennedy's early trip to the Ochs Hospital to be an emergency.

"I would rather not characterize it," he said. "She has been taken to the hospital and this was not foreseen."

The President was notified of the rush trip to the hospital by Dr. Janet Travell, one of the White House physicians, who is at Cape Cod. The President got a telephone call from Dr. Travell, Salinger said, four minutes before noon.

Here a jet powered helicopter was summoned to the White House to rush Kennedy to Andrews Air Force Base for a jet flight to Otis Air Base.

and imposed a nighttime curfew on Cap-Haitien.

Port au Prince, Duvalier's stronghold, did not reflect war tensions. Berrelez reported in a censored dispatch. He said bars and cafes were open and thousands of Haitians strolled the streets as usual.

The Haitian government radio warned Americans to pull out of the war zone, but the approximately 20 American families on sisal plantations near Phaeton were believed in no immediate danger.

Reports reaching the U.S. State Department said the Americans did not pull out. Glyn Curtis Jr., U.S. charge d'affaires in Port au Prince, advised the State Department he contacted the families and "they seem to be experiencing no problem as the result of any military operations in the vicinity."

Viet Nam Village Raided, 91 Men Captured by Reds

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—Communist guerrillas raided a hamlet of Montagnards—mountain tribesmen—in South Viet Nam's central highlands Tuesday and captured 91 tribesmen, the Vietnamese government reported today.

The government said 20 Montagnards returned to the fortified hamlet, one of many established under a U.S.-Vietnamese program to swing primitive tribes to President Ngo Dinh Diem's government.

The government said the guerrillas burned seven houses and took away 41 water buffalo.

The government also reported its planes killed 40 guerrillas who made an unsuccessful attack on a gubernatorial candidate Rubel military outpost in the Mekong Delta Sunday night. U.S. military authorities could not confirm the claim.

It is understood that De Gaulle's stand, taken in a news conference July 29, has been affirmed in a message he sent this week to President Kennedy. De Gaulle is reported to have told Kennedy that France does not intend to sign the test ban treaty—even at the price of U.S. aid for France's nuclear program.

Series of Rapes Terrorizes City

HALLANDALE, Fla. (AP)—Armed officers are maintaining a dusk-to-dawn patrol between the Negro and white sections of this southeast Florida coastal city, terrorized by a series of rapes.

Mayor John D. Steele said "a state of panic" exists and that the Negro section will be sealed off all night until the rapist is caught.

Three white women reported they were raped by a Negro in their homes during the past two weeks, and there were two other attempted rapes. Other rapes and numerous attempts have been reported in recent months. The latest rape occurred Tuesday morning.

"He's a sick animal," the mayor said. "Let's pray to God we get him."

Britain Claims Its Hardest-Hitting Tank

LONDON (AP)—The British army today demonstrated its latest battle tank—the 30-ton Chieftain, claimed to be the hardest-hitting tank in the world.

The Chieftain has a 120-millimeter gun as main armament and can run on all types of fuel.

"In my view it is at least five years ahead of any other tank available to NATO," said Major Gen. W. M. Hutton, director-general of fighting vehicles.

"It can kill all known tanks in the world at ranges at which it is relatively immune itself and can be admitted only when accompanied by an adult."

LONDON (AP)—Prince Charles, and Princess Anne, accompanied by a detective, saw the movie "Cleopatra" Tuesday night.

A detective always accompanies the royal children in public but his presence in the theater served a double purpose.

"Cleopatra" has an "A" for adults—certificate in Britain—meaning that children under 16 is relatively immune itself and can be admitted only when accompanied by an adult.

and Geodetic Survey and Public Health Service, which have their pay on military schedules. This would cost the taxpayers an additional $30,084,000 annually.

Both would provide the largest dollar and percentage raises for lieutenants, captains, majors and lieutenant colonels among officers, and corporals, sergeants and other skilled technicians in the enlisted grades.

But the Senate bill would apply some of these boosts to young officers and noncoms with less than two years service and give them larger increases at times in their careers when they face the decision of re-enlisting or returning to civilian life.

The House version would limit pay increases to active personnel with more than two years service. Its theory was that many short-termers are merely serving out an obligation resulting from the draft.

Approved for the first time by both Senate and House is an extra $55 a month for any officer or enlisted man on Cold War duty who is subject to enemy fire or similar hazard in such places as Viet Nam and South Korea.

A new allowance for the military man unable to take his family or dependents with him also was approved. The Senate approved a flat $30 a month. The House version could range up to $53.40.

Both bills would allow persons who retired prior to July 1, 1962, the date of the previous general military pay increase—to use the higher scales in refiguring retirement pay if it would be higher than a 6 per cent cost-of-living increase granted them.

Lutheran Membership Sets Record

HELSINKI, Finland (AP)—Membership in Lutheran churches around the world has reached a record high, with gains on all continents, a new Lutheran directory says.

The directory, placed on sale for the first time at the Lutheran World Federation's fourth assembly, said baptized memberships in churches now total 56,091,134.

An estimated 17 million Lutherans in German Union churches, which are outside the federation, bring the total world Lutheran membership to over 73 million, the directory said. This is about 500,000 more than were counted two years ago.

The largest gains were in Europe, where 82 per cent of the world's Lutherans live. Membership in European Lutheran churches increased 400,000 to 60.4 million in the past two years.

In North America, Lutheran Church membership rose about 70,000 to 8.5 million during the same period. Gains in Africa, Asia and Latin America were smaller.

The assembly, attended by more than 800 representatives from around the world, opened Tuesday and ends Sunday. The conference is the first world assembly since 1957 and is discussing the role of the Lutheran Church in today's world.

Archbishop Jaan Kiivit, head of the Estonian Evangelical Lutheran Church, told the assembly Tuesday that Soviet society has brought many problems to the Estonian church. But he added, "We know that the church cannot withdraw into some corner and try to wait until the storm is passed."

The Estonian Church, with 350,000 members, is the second largest in the Soviet Baltic republics.

'We Will Win,' Wife Says

Cantave Began Haitian Seige on Anniversary

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Leon Cantave, wife of the Haitian rebel fighting Tuesday night while talking to a reporter in her Manhattan apartment.

Eloquent French, Mrs. Cantave denounced Duvalier as a "blood-thirsty killer."

"We will win. I know we shall," she said.

"I hope all democratic countries will give my husband aid in his attempt to restore freedom and democratic government to my country," she said. "This has been foremost in my mind since we were exiled six years ago."

She said when her husband left here last week he told her only "Pray for us and be strong because I live with a firm conviction that we will win."

Mrs. Cantave said she and the 52-year-old general were married in Port au Prince and she still has brothers and sisters there.

She declined to say whether he had received support or the promise of support from persons in the United States.

Picket Lines in New York Called Off by Leaders

NEW YORK (AP)—Civil rights leaders announced today they have called off further picketing —"permanently, we hope"—at the Downstate Medical Center construction site in Brooklyn, scene of mass arrests for nearly a month.

But one sponsor of the Brooklyn demonstrations, the Congress of Racial Equality, said through its Brooklyn chairman that its officers and members were "upset, disappointed and dissatisfied" with the decision.

But the CORE chairman, Oliver Brown, said that his organization will observe the decision at least for today.

The Brooklyn CORE group will meet at its headquarters tonight to decide whether it will continue the demonstration, Leeds said.

Ironie Satisfaction

Stevenson Suggested Nuclear Ban in 1956

BY JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adlai Stevenson was just part of the American delegation which went to Moscow this week for the signing of the limited nuclear test ban agreement. But his satisfaction must have been special and ironic.

The second time he ran for the presidency, in 1956, he proposed a nuclear test ban. He wasn't the first to do it. But as the campaign neared its end this became the biggest issue. It didn't do him any good.

That wasn't the only irony in the story.

The Soviets made the suggestion before he did, on Nov. 28, 1955, proposing that the countries with nuclear weapons pledge to discontinue their testing.

Nikita Khrushchev suggested it again in February 1956. And on April 12 of that year Thomas E. Murray, a member of the Atomic Energy Commission, suggested the United States stop testing H-bombs.

Seconds Idea

Stevenson picked up Murray's idea and seconded it on April 21.

Opposition To Mandatory Fine Arises

A recent Appleton Water Department edict that any contractors damaging water mains must pay a $25 minimum penalty in addition to repair costs has run into opposition.

Objections to the policy are being raised by other municipal departments.

After being appraised of the water department's action, the common council's street-sanitation committee this week directed Public Works Director Robert W. Boes to ignore it.

The committee took the position that if the street or sanitation divisions, or any other city departments, are responsible for damaging water department installations — they would pay only the cost of materials and labor to have them fixed.

Bues was instructed to discuss the matter with water department officials and inform them of the city's stand in regard to the $25 minimum penalty.

The committee said it will refuse to pay any water department-authorized "fines".

That was before he got the nomination.

All through the campaign, Stevenson hammered away at the idea, which seemed to develop in his mind as he went along. At first he seemed simply to suggest that this country stop the tests unilaterally and ask the Soviet Union to do the same.

In time he seemed to think there should be an agreement with Moscow before this country stopped, although he didn't quite say that. But he said the United States should take the lead in stopping hydrogen bomb tests.

And on Sept. 30, 1956, he said: "I have proposed a moratorium on the tests and 'if the Russians don't go along... we will know it... because we can detect H-bomb explosions without inspection.' Later he talked of 'agreement' to end the tests.

Waste of Money

President Eisenhower wanted no part of the Stevenson-Murray proposition. He clamped down on them fast, in April, before the campaign and even before he knew Stevenson would be running against him.

He said this country peeded to do research both on H-bombs and missiles to carry them and research without tests would be "perfectly useless—a waste of money."

The Eisenhower administration wanted some way to check, or inspect, to prevent cheating. Stevenson's point was that explosions would be known anyway.

Ex-president Truman backed Eisenhower. He said the Soviets couldn't be trusted to keep an agreement. But last week he approved the agreement just made with Moscow. He said "we are duty bound to explore every opportunity to put an end to this armament race."

Vice President Richard M. Nixon excoriated Stevenson for his proposal in the 1956 campaign. He called it "catastrophic nonsense." He said it did not protect "Americans from nuclear bombing because it lacks the essential ingredient of inspection."

But last week in Europe and again Tuesday night on his return to New York, Nixon said he feels sure the Senate will approve the agreement just reached with the Soviet Union although it has no provision for inspection.

And in the middle of the 1956 campaign, Soviet Premier Bulganin wrote to Eisenhower and, without saying so, supported Stevenson by suggesting the big powers at least agree on banning tests, even if they couldn't agree on anything else.

Eisenhower bawled him out for sticking his nose into the presidential race. He said all plans for stopping the arms race and reducing armaments "require systems of inspection and control."

Two years later—on Oct. 31, 1958—the Eisenhower administration announced exactly what Stevenson had proposed: a moratorium on testing. It said the United States would stop testing, leaving it up to Moscow without any agreement, to do likewise.

Stop Testing

The Soviets stopped testing, too. The two sides went on talking about disarmament and reaching an agreement on nuclear test bans. Nothing happened. President Kennedy took over. And on Aug. 30, 1961, the Soviet Union announced it was ending its voluntary test ban and would start testing. It did. So did this country.

On Aug. 27, 1962, Kennedy proposed that, if the two sides couldn't agree on how to ban underground tests, the most difficult to detect, at least they should agree on banning tests in the atmosphere, outer space and under the sea.

The Soviets wouldn't buy. Yet the very agreement they reached with this country July 25 is in effect what Kennedy proposed: a ban on tests in the atmosphere, outer space and under the sea. They could not agree on stopping underground tests. So they let that go.

On July 31 Eisenhower wouldn't say he approves or doesn't approve the agreement. He said he preferred not to comment until military men and scientists had expressed their views.

Diplomats Like This We Can't Afford to Lose

The United States Ambassador to Panama, Joseph S. Farland, has resigned. And this is not good for American foreign policy in Latin America.

Farland, a West Virginia coal and banking executive, is given much credit for the restoration of good relations between Panama and the United States. He arrived there soon after the so-called "flag riots" of 1959. He encouraged and visited housing developments and other social and economic projects and he made extensive tours by jeep of areas in Panama where no other U. S. envoy had ever visited. In fact he made so many friends in the back country that it was a standing joke that he must be running for local office.

In letters to friends in Washington recently Farland made it clear he was resigning because of vigorous dissent with U. S. foreign policy positions and operational and jurisdictional matters. He wrote that "on at least one occasion I went so far as to tell the President basic facts concerning glaring defects in the A.I.D. program. In so doing it is generally known that I have 'stepped on a few toes.'"

Farland may be remembered in this area as a speaker on the America and the World Community series sponsored by the Post-Crescent and Lawrence College.

In his remarks here he was critical of the form American aid was taking in Panama. He declared the great need was for road construction into the hinterlands, but that officials in Washington had rules against spending money on such projects. He intimated that our aid was going to the wrong places in Panama.

A Panama newspaper wrote that "his attitude is so sincere that he has rapidly won over farmers who know they can trust him without having their confidence shattered as in the past when they have been betrayed by loud-mouthed politicians who have promised so much but never kept their word. He prefers to take trucks and tractors to the interior of the republic and assist—not the powerful landlords who would and could overwhelm him with the receptions and adulation—but the humble farmer who ardently tills the earth."

A Republican, he was appointed originally by President Eisenhower. When President Kennedy took office, Panamanians petitioned him to keep Joe on the job and Mr. Kennedy did.

This is the kind of diplomat abroad America needs more of, not less.

Appleton's Traffic Record

With the roses come thorns. The National Safety Council's evaluation of Appleton's 1962 traffic record is no exception.

The Council's analysis indicated that Appleton scored 67 out of a possible 100 points and improved its over-all record by two points over the 1961 rating. That improvement is being made in Appleton's traffic safety program comes as encouraging news to the citizenry as well as law enforcement officials.

The Safety Council pointed out that the strongest areas of the city's program are traffic engineering and traffic courts. The court of Judge Gustave Keller received special recognition for its outstanding record in processing traffic cases.

However, the report also indicates that police traffic supervision is in need of strengthening. Since the data for 1962 was supplied to the Safety Council, several changes have been made within the police department which should reflect improvement when the 1963 rating is determined.

The Safety Council made several recommendations for improving the city's record, placing heavy emphasis on the elimination of angle parking on College Avenue and the inauguration of an in-the-car driving course at the Appleton High School.

Traffic safety is a 24-hour-a-day job requiring the alertness and cooperation of pedestrians, motorists and law enforcement officers. Although Appleton had an above average rating when compared with several other state communities, there appears to be considerable room for improvement.

High School Technology Courses

A high school in California has completed a year of a new program of study, and authorities at the school estimate that several of their honor students would not have made their grades without it. They also feel they have helped to lick part of the drop-out problem.

De Anza High School in Richmond now offers a pre-technology course of study as an alternative to the college preparatory, business education and manual arts courses available in most public high schools. Students take what appear to be the usual requirements of English, math and science but the aim of each course is toward technical training.

Probably a major reason for the success of the program thus far is the emphasis upon relating each subject to others—a policy used in the better college preparatory programs. Students in physics, for instance, study laws of motion by observation of pendulums which they have made. In math they learn the theorems and equations which concern pendulums. In English they write themes on their technical projects and their vocabulary tests include technical words that most college prep students never heard of.

The pre-technology program is no

"bonehead" course aimed at giving something to do for students unable or unwilling to study the usual requirements. It developed instead from the fact that officials at San Francisco's Cogswell Polytechnical College were increasingly dismayed over the poor preparation of entering students. It also came from the concern of the American Society for Engineering Education over the need for 140,000 engineering technicians a year while only 40,000 are being graduated with know-how. And it also came from the recognition of school authorities that some of the drop-out problem came from mechanically minded youngsters bored to distraction with Latin, poetry and sentence structure because they saw no purpose in their studies.

As much of the emphasis in recent years has been to improve college preparatory programs, they gained a kind of prestige that meant the manual arts or industrial arts departments assumed lower status in some school, if not in actual quality at least in the "image" of students and parents. But it has been clear that regular college prep courses are not for everyone, particularly in this technical age. The pre-technology program may be a real answer to a major problem.

Drinking Enough Coffee?

Coffee growers in Brazil have destroyed some 450 million coffee trees in the last 12 months under a government program to try and bring world supply and demand for coffee beans closer into balance. The government of Brazil pays them to switch coffee acreage to non-surplus crops. Some 15 billion more trees are slated for uprooting. This would cut Brazil's coffee production about in half.

But despite these measures the world has a coffee glut. Importing nations use about 47.5 million bags annually. World output in the current marketing season is estimated at 51.7 million bags. And the world carryover of surplus coffee on June 30 was 80 million bags.

There hasn't been any radical decline in coffee consumption. The coffee break is still as popular as ever. It's simply a matter of gross overproduction. And maybe the fact that the nickel cup of coffee is a thing of the past despite the surplus in Brazil.

Republicans Want to See File Of Kennedy-Khrushchev Letters

BY ROBERT S. ALLEN AND PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Senate Republican leaders are squaring off to raise a nuclear inspection issue of their own in the crucial debate on the test ban treaty.

They proposed to formally ask President Kennedy to submit for scrutiny by the Senate his extended exchange of letters with Premier Khrushchev on the test ban, other disarmament proposals, Cuba, Berlin and Laos. It is authoritatively known that this private correspondence exceeds 30 letters.

The GOP senators will contend that "on-site inspection" of the "K-K" communications is necessary to reach a sound decision on the full implications of the test ban pact on U. S. foreign policy.

DIRKSEN DRAFTING REQUEST

Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen, Ill., is drafting this dynamite-loaded request. It will be sent to the White House under his signature and those of GOP members of the Foreign Relations Committee, which will conduct the hearings on the treaty.

In discussing his unique proposal with colleagues, Dirksen is stressing that the closely-guarded "K-K" correspondence should be made available to the Senate "so we will be able to determine before voting on this treaty how far down the road toward complete disarmament the President is committing us."

"Only by seeing what is in the 'K-K' letters," avers Dirksen, "will we really know where this treaty is taking us."

In urging Republican senators to remain uncommitted until treaty debate is concluded, Dirksen explains he will seek access to all the Kennedy-Khrushchev letters and not just those dealing with the test ban.

"Since the President and his foreign policy advisers have held that all policies and actions toward Cuba and Berlin must be considered within the framework of our overall foreign policy," Dirksen says, "all correspondence with Khrushchev should be laid before the Senate in order to make perfectly clear how the treaty will affect our relations with the Soviet in these critical areas."

LIFTING THE LID

As previously reported in this column, President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev have exchanged more than 30 letters on subjects ranging from the test ban to Cuba, and from setting up an international crisis commission to a nonaggression pact between NATO and the Warsaw Pact nations.

In an exchange just before the test ban agreement, the President indicated willingness to meet with Khrushchev this fall, provided a partial accord was concluded.

Khrushchev's reply to this offer would be of utmost interest to the Senate. While he left the door open for a summit conference, the Soviet ruler raised the question of whether any pact could "gain the acquiescence of your Congress."

Khrushchev made it clear he held strong misgivings on this score.

If the President does allow the Senate to examine this absorbing "K-K" correspondence—which is highly doubtful—the lawmakers would learn that Khrushchev picked the time and place for the test ban negotiations.

Also that the Kremlin leader is convinced the President favors a nonaggression pact between NATO and the Warsaw Pact countries.

In one exchange, Khrushchev wrote that "In light of your Thanksgiving Day (1961) statement to my son-in-law, Alexei Adzhubel, I see no obstacle to reaching an agreement with you on my proposal for a NATO-Warsaw nonaggression pact."

As a clincher, Khrushchev quoted the President's statement — "It would be helpful if NATO and the Warsaw Pact engaged in a commitment to live in peace with each other."

Senator Dirksen and the other Republican leaders feel they have nothing to lose in seeking access to these and other unpublished details of the Kennedy-Khrushchev correspondence.

Seconds Woman's Views On Attorney General

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Our State Attorney General must have caught the same disease that is troubling our United States Attorney General. Interpret laws not on logic but ego and politics.

Constructive Acts By Legislature at This Session Recapitulated

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The record of the 1963 legislature, whatever the popular judgment of it may be, has to all intents and purposes been made. While the law makers have arranged to return to their chambers next November, the final lap is unlikely to produce anything that will substantially alter the record of performance thus far. The final deliberations will consist mostly of disposing of the generally minor matters left hanging when the weary members abruptly closed their desks last weekend.

The record as a whole is an ordinary one. Perhaps that was inevitable. Most of the energy of the leaders of both party caucuses, and most of the time and thought of the rank and file members, were necessarily diverted to the perplexing, honestly difficult and unpleasant business of resolving the worst financial pinch the political rulers of this state have ever encountered.

Serious work on the tax and finance issue started at the beginning of April. The governor's signature on the finished product was written on the last day of July. That four month period, represented the heart of the legislative session, the period during which the only fruitful work in any session can ever be produced.

High on the list of the positive achievements of the session must be the achievement of a reasonably acceptable congressional reapportionment act, the first in more than three decades. Curiously, this enactment has had little popular recognition or comment, in contrast with the issue of legislative redistricting, although it would seem that most persons interested in equality of representation would be as much concerned about fair arrangements in choosing national legislators as in equitable apportionment of state legislative voting power.

DOINGS

The most equivocal of the items in the legislative record is legislative redistricting, perhaps as another inevitable result of the partisan political division in the rule of the capitol. The Democratic and Republican positions here are apparently irreconcilable, and both parties are now accepting the idea that the state supreme court will find the solution—whatever it may be. It may be that this will provide a precedent for future redistricting by judicial findings, which would be a welcome relief to many persons who must be weary of the perennially inconclusive legislative wrestling with the subject.

Talking With Hands Lessens Use of Fists

I remember a little street cafe in the Piazza della Repubblica in Florence, where I was sipping a vermouth late one afternoon, and listening to an argument at the table next to mine.

A small bird-like man with an intense face was trying to convince his companion that the coalition government in Italy was too incompetent to last—but what fascinated me was not so much the logic of his argument (which I could barely follow) as the eloquence of his hands.

Many times since I have thought of this verbal virtuoso, and have contrasted him with conversationalists in the colder Anglo-Saxon countries. It seems to me that we have a lot of charm and gusto, by being ashamed to use our hands as an accompaniment to speech.

The body, after all, is a unit, the mind and tongue cannot work independently of the whole organism. Intellectual passion increases the heartbeat, arguments raise the blood pressure, deep convictions tighten the jaw and harden the jaw.

Perhaps unexciting to the man on the street, but an event of considerable significance, nevertheless, was the recodification and modernization of the vast bulk of commercial law in the Wisconsin statutes. It required four years of hard work, but it is probably not the kind of thing that the boys at the lodge will mention when they see their state senator.

The creation of the special citizens commission to review the problems in prospect in future financing of state and local government must be listed as an important decision, although whether it will produce anything of importance can only be guessed. The fact that the legislature is aware of the enormity of budgeting problems ahead must be encouraging, however. The normal tendency of the politician is to look the other way when he is reminded that the future may contain some unpleasantness.

The enactment of a new program of medical care for the elderly needy, while there will be dispute about its merits, is a significant step. It provides the kind of benefits through state initiative that the ruling party in the United States government has repeatedly pledged and proposed, but seems unable to achieve. The legislature's credit here must perhaps be qualified, however, by recalling the fact that it has committed the state to a heavy new expenditure on a permanent basis, without having the slightest idea how the money will be found once it is in full operation.

The most equivocal of the items in the legislative record is legislative redistricting, perhaps as another inevitable result of the partisan political division in the rule of the capitol. The Democratic and Republican positions here are apparently irreconcilable, and both parties are now accepting the idea that the state supreme court will find the solution—whatever it may be. the human animal, it is conventionally imposed. But beneath the soft tone and the motionless arms there often churn much heat and scorn and indignation, which smolder sullenly until bursting into hate. It is not accident that the quiet and seemingly controlled person is often, ultimately, the most violent.

It is common to see Italians, or other Latins, argue so intensely that you are sure they are going to exchange blows in a minute. They rarely do; the tension is broken by a laugh, and they walk off arm in arm. It is a kind of psychological game, played within strict rules, and the players almost never violate the unspoken code, which is: hit with your words, not with your fists.

Where this kind of conversational release is not obtained, and where the culture frowns on great emotional expressiveness, people are more sensitive in argument. When you attack an American's ideas, he feels you are attacking him personally, and is filled with resentment. He cannot stand or understand, a heated controversy that may be personal in expression but is quite abstract and objective in nature.

This may explain why, unfortunately, so much of our social conversation is polite and rapid. We are afraid of starting a verbal fight for we don't have the kind of formalized and built-in controls to prevent it from degenerating into a physical fight. A man who is busy talking with his hands has neither the energy nor the incentive for hitting with them.

Skirt Lengths Swirl Into Paris Controversy

Wednesday, August 7, 1963 Appleton Post-Crescent A7

From the Fall Collection of Jacques Heim comes this Rome Red coat and "Pope" hat. Heim dropped his hemlines by three inches in his collection for the new season. Evidence of his proposed new skirt length is seen in the cocktail dress at right, which he showed in black lame, cloque material. It is covered with silver dots and is worn with a black velvet "Pope" hat. He calls this dress the "Santa Fe."

BY PAUL GHALI
PARIS — After two days of lines by three inches, but Jacques Heim dropped his hem-Paris showings it was clear that man, Lanvin and Azbaleta, a 31 Paris couturiers were playing year-old newcomer from Spain, around with skirt lengths but that came out with ankle-length evening dresses. Their coats and so far. The trend to lower the hemline than last season. Azbaleta came here from Rome, where he worked for Irene Galitzine.

At Nina Ricci, Jules Francois Crahay, one of the trend setting designers of Paris, found a compromise by lengthening his coats to mid-calf while his skirts and dresses remained just below the knee.

May Never Happen
 The inescapable conclusion is that it will be several seasons before skirts are drastically lengthened and strong resistance by working and walking women may well reverse the trend in the meantime.

First reactions from fashionable women of Paris to Heim's spectacular move were definitely bad. Three main characteristics have marked the Paris collections, though none is a world shaking innovation.

Kerchief Headwear
 —The kerchief hat. Kerchiefs to cover the head have turned up in every collection up to now, made of everything from black patent leather to ermine and mink. They look like they'll be a serious threat to milliners.

—What's called the Russian Schoolgirl Look, though it is terribly sexy. I can only describe it as a strapless silk boiler suit worn with long black stockings ending just below the knee.

Yves Saint Laurent once more has proved his fashion genius with a collection that simplifies shapes and lines and clarifies the sometimes confused ideas of his colleagues.

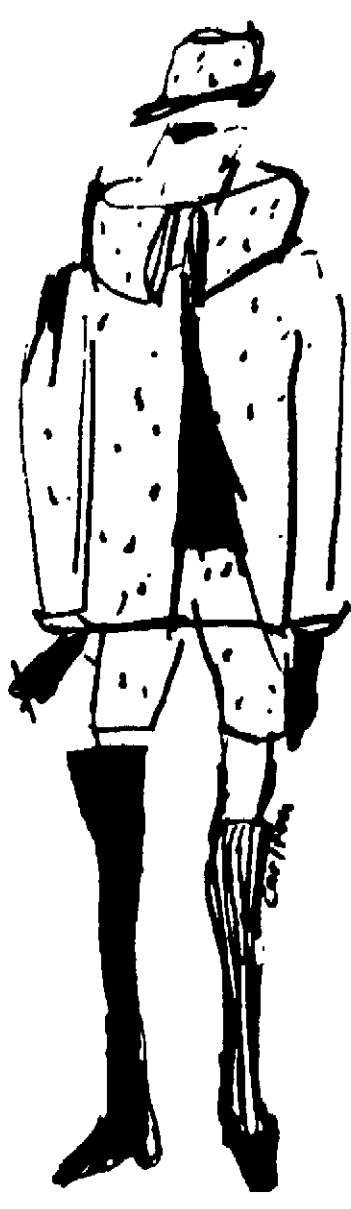

Others hesitated between looser or more fitted gowns, longer or present length hemlines but not Saint Laurent.

His lines loosened and his hems dropped a couple of inches over the kneecaps for afternoon and cocktail wear.

A Looser Line
 His tunics, jerkins or jackets—whatever you like to call them—instead of molding the form and lifting the bosom up were supple and loose.

Even his headwear was pretty and in tune with the collection. Instead of tubes and turbans Saint Laurent showed nice, neat little hats with the youthfulness and gaiety of renaissance page boys.

Saint Laurent's collection bristled with new ideas. He had mid-thigh boots to be worn with pants in the morning, back-buttoning Paris couturiers showed one of the loveliest collections of her long career. Faithful as ever to her little collarless suit, she makes it the basic theme on which to play innumerable fascinating, and sometimes surprising, themes.

Seemingly dateless, the Chanel suit somehow manages to look more contemporary each season. The general line this time is close to the body—small shoulders, narrow sleeves and a long, flexible waist, underlined by a belt or a bias.

But the real story lies in the fabrics, their texture and their colors.

Skirt Simplicity
 The suits came in a whole range of soft, misty tweeds in every shade you can imagine—pink, orange, mauve, green, gold. Silk down on the brow almost meet-jacket linings and matching tucking in shirts or blouses often made strong color contrast, navy blue or green under pink tweed, black ribbon or a single gardenia perched on a short simple page-boy hair.

Some skirts had a wrap-around style, straight and simple. Coats were very feminine, again using handloomed tweed for day-time wear. They were trimmed with huge fur collars of black, red or beige fox or shaggy Mongolian lamb. Fur also was used for deep cuffs and even for bordering hemlines.

Chanel continued her theme in cocktail and late evening wear, with short, low-waisted lame suits edged with mink or sable. She also offered finely pleated wool or raw silk dresses worn with full length topcoats. Evening coats were lined with fur.

Give Aged A Margin Of Safety

Home Sweet Home, that supposed pillar of sanctuary, is the site of more injuries each year than our nation's highways.

On the average, about 26,000 Americans are accidentally killed in their homes each year and four million are injured.

Most of these injuries and deaths occur through falls—particularly among older people. Of the 11,800 persons who died from falls in their homes in 1961, 10,100 were age 64 and over.

For the most part, these falls among older people occur at floor level—not from high places such as a ladder or roof. And in general they are easily preventable. When you can answer yes to the following questions, then you have set the pattern for safety proofing your home against accidents of the aging.

Non-Skid Rugs
 Do you have scatter rugs—those bright and cheerful magic carpets of death—fastened securely or provided with non-skid backing?

Do you have handrails of a proper height and strength on all stairways and steps and by the bath tub and commode?

Do you have for yourself or for visiting old people a comfortable safe stable chair with sturdy arms that can support the weight of a person pushing himself to his feet?

Do you have a light switch by the bed and flashlight at all needed areas and are your lights bright enough to compensate for the dimmer vision of older eyes?

Read for Everyone
 Do you know, and if so, do you make use of the knowledge that older people should not sit on the edge of the bed before rising, that they should stand still an instant after coming to their feet to prevent any accidents from possible dizziness?

Do you know that a clean, clutter-free house as free as possible of things to trip over makes for the safest home for people of all ages?

Living Within Income ABC's for Buying First Set of Furniture Given

BY MARY FEELEY
Consultant in Money Management

Today's column is a salute to the bride and groom. May they live happily with their new furniture.

It has always seemed to me that buying furniture is a peculiarly "emotional" sort of shopping. So it can prove crucial. Lack of attention to workman-ship. This applies especially if you are buying an important piece of furniture. It is a good classic design it will fit harmoniously into any future setting. Is it made of hard wood that will not have a tendency to split?

For that very reason, it is wise to do some preliminary shopping before setting foot in the furniture store. Decide this basic question: are all these first pieces merely held together with nails to be considered temporary? Look to see if screws and bolts are used in addition. Examine the live for the first few years—or are one or two pieces to be chosen for forever after.

Easy Pitfalls
Perhaps it will be helpful to know what some of the easy pitfalls in buying furniture are. Ask all the questions you can. They can be recognized and avoided. For instance, Choosing pieces out of scale shape without stretching and sagging the house or apartment. Keep in mind the proportions of your new home whether it's easy to clean. If a well in mind. Often furniture is chair or sofa isn't comfortable in displayed in a more spacious set. The store, it won't be any more ting in the store. It can literally comfortable when you get it home. overpower its new home - even.

et in an enthusiastic binge. When carrying charges are too heavy, the budget gets bogged down and it can take years to get it back on an even keel. A reasonable allotment for furniture is 10 to 12 per cent of the annual income. Think twice before you take on more than that.

Take Time
Trying to furnish the entire house or apartment at one time. Few young couples can do this. It's usually smarter to concentrate on a few good pieces, then take the plan with inexpensive, temporary furniture which will be adequate if not entirely satisfactory — but which can usefully be relegated to less prominent parts of the house in future years. Shopping too impulsively. When a young couple marries, their tastes are not necessarily jelled. They grew up with somebody else's choice of furnishings—usually their parents'. Their own ideas may take another turn. Unless the two feel their tastes are in complete harmony, that they know definitely what type of furniture they will live with most happily — then they should take their time in spending money. Couples who plan to start a family right away should take that into consideration when they shop. Perhaps it will be more realistic to think in terms of "child-proof" furnishing for the next few years. A more selective choice of furniture might well be postponed, looking toward later years when such pieces will play a more significant part in family life.

Make Most Sense
I recall the woman whose living room was a rather mixed assortment of entirely washable furnishings. When asked by a visitor what "period" her furniture was, this mother replied complacently: "Early Childhood." Of course, fabrics and furniture that can be kept clean the inexpensive way — with just plain suds—make the most sense. Upholstery that is going to be difficult to care for will pose a budget problem. The same holds true for carpeting, floor coverings, draperies. Upkeep has to be considered as part of the cost, remember. As a parting piece of advice: don't consider accessories merely as incidentals. A single lamp can make or mar a living room. It's always wisest to settle for fewer things and really enjoy those few.

Forcing Card Will Win Game

One advantage of playing duplicate bridge now and then is that you have the chance to talk to other players who have handled the very same cards. This may alert you to a mistake that would cost you thousands of points per year if nobody told you about it.

South refused the first trick on the theory that spades would be continued. This came to pass, and South won the second trick with the ace of spades. It was a good match ended, they mobbed the pavilion, grinning, waving, trying to touch the maharani's robes. She smiled back, patted a few heads, then swept into the prize-giving enclosure. The maharani was anxious to store up a few more votes for the next election.

A favorite playmate in the International Set, she won election by a landslide last year to the lower house of India's parliament. In impoverished India, the maharani is a standout. She campaigned in jewels, dark glasses, flowing silk saris and a jeep — and overwhelmed her opponents. "They thought of her as half goddess," recalls an Indian newspaper. "She glamorized the people. When she traveled, a whole retinue went with her."

But the maharani told me: "I just campaigned like you Jaipur. The maharajah himself was already engaged in politics, when she visited India last year. Why doesn't the maharani just spend her time with her interesting friends?"

Whatever the reason, the maharani's vote was the largest of any candidate in the election. Yet Singh Bahadur, the maharajah of the polo-playing maharajah of Jaipur, picked up only 5 per cent of the vote. That achievement made her the white hope of the Swatantra, a 21-year-old party whose leaders' claim they are trying to establish a loyal opposition to the dominant Congress Party.

Swatantra's opponents sneer that it is a collection of disgruntled ex-members of the Congress Party and of maharajahs longing for their lost power. Whoever is right, no one denies that Swatantra is the only party in India — or the world — whose leading vote-getter once was named one of the 10 most beautiful women in the world.

At 44, she's a Hollywood version of a maharani. Her brown eyes are upturned by some long-forgotten Mongolian ancestor. She wears her hair in a shoulder-length bob that she tosses back with royal hauteur. And her figure is strictly Ava Gardner.

India's Big Votegetter Is Glamorous Maharani of Jaipur

BY DORIS KLEIN
JAIPUR, India — It was just another Sunday afternoon at the Rajasthan Polo Club. From her canopy-shaded pavilion, Gayatri Devi, the maharani of Jaipur, kept one eye on the ponies, flicked her slipping sari over her head and cadged a cigarette from a guest.

"This isn't like the polo we once had," she reminisced, casting a critical eye on contenders for the low handicap fortnightly cup. "It used to be quite an event, every week."

The kids of Jaipur crowded the fence around the field. When the match ended, they mobbed the pavilion, grinning, waving, trying to touch the maharani's robes. She smiled back, patted a few heads, then swept into the prize-giving enclosure. The maharani was anxious to store up a few more votes for the next election.

dragged on a cigarette recently in her study at the palace and were put under her husband's nominal reign as newly independent India gently wrested power from her more than 600 princes. The maharajah was pensioned off with tax-free privy purse of almost a half-million dollars a year. A few years ago, for a bit of extra income, the maharajah turned his home, Rambagh Palace, into a hotel and moved to another of his three Jaipur palaces. That's how things stood when the maharani decided to enter politics. "My husband didn't mind a bit," she said. The peasants didn't seem to mind either that the maharani—who had spent at least six months of the year out of India — suddenly courted their vote. "In the Hindu religion, rulers are held in high esteem," explains an Indian newsmen. "We feel they have done something good in their previous life to have been reincarnated as royal rulers. That's why the villagers regarded her as half-goddess." She won with 462,468 votes. Her closest opponent had 189,909. The maharani admits, however, that she hasn't been able to put too many of her campaign promises into effect.

"After all, we're a minority party. Then there was the war last fall. You can't press for lower taxes with a war going on." Still, her party's minority status and her own as a fledgling backbencher in parliament haven't daunted the maharani. Not long ago, she challenged Nehru himself on a matter of government policy. Nehru peered towards the back row and said gently: "I don't want to exchange words with a lady." The maharani smiled and retired quietly.

His two previous wives, princesses of neighboring Jodhpur, had died, leaving him three sons and a daughter. The third maharani bore him a fourth son, a handsome lad, now 13, with his mother's startling eyes. Two years after their marriage.

Bustles Must Go

Could your hips do with a trimming? If so, you had best get busy. Or you may find your figure is no match for Fall fashions. Their look, so relaxed and nonchalant, is deceiving. For they move in a way that accents the figure as it moves. Too, and details often call attention to the hips, via belts, seaming and bands. Obviously, those hippy devices and hipness just won't go together. But then when we're good fashions and poor figures ever compatible?

To slice off an inch or two, at least a month of daily exercise is required. For a mighty sharp double-edged routine, use this:

1. Lie back down on floor, hug knees to chest with arms and center side and circle knees in anti-clockwise weight on right hip. Now wise direction — twenty times. 2. Sitting erect on floor with legs small circles. Continue for twenty straight out, slowly contract and counts. Then shift weight to left
